Pluto aspects and potential impact:

Extra: Saturn Square Uranus

The big energy for 2021 is transit Saturn in Aquarius square transit Uranus in Taurus since this goes exact 3 times throughout the year: February 17th, June 14th, and December 24th.

Saturn is lessons, restrictive, craves stability and security, and is traditional.

Uranus is change, innovation and invention, and the unconventional. So they're pretty opposite! And the square is a challenging aspect of internalized friction. Put it all together, and you can see what you get!

We have a balancing act all year when it comes to the traditional versus the unconventional, change versus stability. We may sway from one to the other and back again, and a lot of this may be triggered by something deep inside as opposed to something completely external.

The best thing to do is to go about that Uranus change in a way that is Saturn smart. Impulsive and impatient? That won't fly with Saturn, and punishment comes. But stale and resistant? That won't fly with Uranus, and chaos ensues.

Focus on changes you can make, but don't run into them. Do homework, gather information, make a plan, and take disciplined action.

What changes can you focus on? What plans and preparations do you need to work on for them? How can you be better disciplined with the steps you take?
