General impact of the Moon in Gemini (bolded is what's most likely to be felt with a New Moon in Gemini):

When the Moon is in Gemini, mental stimulation makes us feel better and is greatly desired. Resting on our laurels is not an option with this Moon. We need constant mental action or restlessness will set in, and then comes the irritability, and then comes the fighting. Stay in motion or be on edge. Communications are important, and we spend much of this Moon taking on the phone and reading, shooting off emails and text messages, writing letters and taking trips to see people. It's a sociable time because we need others to help keep us busy and fuel our minds. We're much more inquisitive and are in need of some short-term diversity in our lives. This Moon is usually good for day-to-day activities, as long as there's a long list of them, and multi-tasking is better done now. Gemini is also a dual sign, so we may see things coming in pairs. Whatever we need, give us two of it! Just watch for an inability to handle the quiet, and we can be too changeable, not being able to stay on anything long enough to actually see things through.

General Interpretations for New Moons in the Houses (bolded is what's more likely with a Gemini New Moon):

New Moon in the 1st House

The 1st House is the house of the self, so a New Moon here is a great time to make a new you. Get a haircut, manicure, or new outfit. Reinvention of the outer self is fruitful with this placement. Make yourself look your best, and it'll help you feel your best, increasing your stamina, confidence, and overall approach to life. Doing an internal overhaul is good now as well. How you come across and how you express yourself may be things you focus on changing to better reflect the inner you, especially if you're someone who tends to hide who you are with others. Your energy may be higher, which is good because you'll likely be quite busy, and you may be more eager about life, especially trying new things. You want to meet new people, have new experiences, and be more courageous and daring. Consequently, it's a good time to try something that you've been a little gun-shy about in the past. You'll be less likely to shy away and may feel that you can get anything done right now. Being in the spotlight doesn't seem so uncomfortable now, and you may put yourself out there more, or end up getting more attention for something naturally.

New Moon in the 2nd House

The 2nd House rules your disposable income, so money matters fall here. A New Moon in this house could signal a new opportunity or strong desire to increase your income, or, on the flip-side, an opportunity to spend money (and not on everyday items). If you have to spend money, make sure it's on something that is truly necessary and not something that you'll regret later, and be wary of impulse buying. If it's something you really do need, then this is an excellent time to buy it, with little chance of buyer's remorse (so if you've got a big purchase you know you have to make, timing it for now could be beneficial). If you're looking to streamline and get your finances under control, this can be a good time for it. Plan a budget and stick with it! The 2nd House also rules your self-esteem, so you can see a positive increase in the way you feel about yourself if you choose to work on the personal growth needed to increase your sense of self-worth. You want to be more in touch with your senses, so physical stimulation may be sought now. That stimulation may be felt more intensely, and you may overindulge.

New Moon in the 3rd House (this is the house that naturally connects with Gemini, so energy can be doubled)

The 3rd House rules communications, so with a New Moon here, you can see an increase in the amount of communications you have with people, whether it's in person, over the phone, on the computer, or by some other means. Gathering information is easier now, and you can collect and arrange it all neatly. Day-to-day activities can be finished without feeling like they're tedious and redundant. The only chance you have of feeling boredom now is if there isn't enough to do, so stay busy, which shouldn't be too hard now. Making quick decisions is favorable, and dwelling on singular issues may drive you more bonkers. Just decide and move on. Why fret? You may also want to expand your mind and learn something new. Feeding the mind is usually a good way to keep from ever being bored. This house rules siblings as well, so you could spend more time with yours having new interactions, or by restoring the relationship if it hasn't been where you want it to be. Short distance travel is a part of the Third House, so you could take a day trip, perhaps for a task, or just on a whim. Updating your close environment, most likely through your community, could come about. Volunteer locally, join neighborhood watch, or pick up litter around your block.

New Moon in the 4th House

The 4th House is the house of home and family, so a New Moon in the 4th House can show you making improvements to your home (and that can be as simple as buying a new throw pillow or as advanced as knocking down a few walls). Cleaning up your home and personal space can make you feel better about everything. Cluttered home, cluttered life, cluttered mind! You may want to spend more time with your family, bonding, renewing relationships (if you haven't been spending much time with the family), and opening up about your true feelings. Emotions may be deeper and intimacy may be more desirable, along with a stronger group of supporters to help protect you when you're feeling vulnerable. Be a better supporter of others too. Your intuition can be more developed now as well, so listen to those initial feelings you have about things. The first reaction may very well be the best one right now. It's a good period to sell your home, buy a house, move, or refinance. You want to keep busy, or you may be kept busy with a flurry of activity. Making and working towards long-term goals is a positive use of the energy.

New Moon in the 5th House

The 5th House is the house of fun, so you could spend some time going wild at a party, practicing a long-loved hobby, or letting the creative juices flow if a New Moon falls here. You feel less reclusive and want to get out more. Feeling lonesome isn't an option! The things that you feel make life fun are what you're most attracted to now. Creating is positive, so this is an especially good time for those who work to 'create' anything, not just the arts. This house also rules romance, so you could have a new date or feel like bringing some romance into your relationship if you're committed (bubble bath, dinner for two, etc.). If you've got your eye on someone, ask them out. If you just want to mingle, mingle. Children are a 5th House matter, so if you have kids, you may feel inclined to spend more time with them, or they may require your attention for something. You may want to get in touch with your own inner child, feeling more playful and carefree. You can be bolder, feeling better about yourself, and you may require more approval from those around you.

New Moon in the 6th House

The 6th House rules your health, so a New Moon here could have you more focused on your well being, be it physical fitness or mental stability. It's a good time to try a new diet or health regimen, but make sure it's something you can realistically keep up with and not some fad you'll quit in two weeks. Be careful not to obsess about being healthy – even too much of a good thing is a bad thing! Everything in moderation.

Your daily habits may undergo a change, especially in an attempt to restore order if some aspect of life has been out of balance. Keeping things disorganized and cluttered is not tolerated now. You may adopt a new pet or get something new for the one you have. Your work environment is also a 6th house issue, so this is a good time to improve your current one or look for a new one altogether. Just don't set your sights so high they're unattainable, and you end up doing something you regret. Sometimes impulsiveness can set in and you can find yourself quitting your job on a whim, and then what are you going to do? Keep in mind that any changes made should be positive and well thought out.

New Moon in the 7th House

The 7th House rules all of your relationships, so a New Moon here highlights your romantic relationships, business relationships, and even your enemies (but with the 7th House, it's 'open' enemies, the ones you know about, the people who you openly admit you don't like and are out to get you; the 12th House rules 'hidden' enemies, the ones we don't realize are our enemies, because of denial, or because they're able to hide it so well, or because it's secretly us). Improving your existing relationships and making them into positive, life-affirming parts of your existence is a good way to use the energy. All good relationships should provide us with something for growth in some way, so ensure that all of yours are doing so. Evaluating your ideas of intimacy and of how you view individuality versus interdependency can come about, especially if you have issues with these ideas. In business, a partner may be helpful in getting what you want accomplished, and you're better with negotiating and being fair. Your emotions are higher with all your relationships, and if you're finding yourself going it alone a lot, you'll be much less comfortable with that now.

New Moon in the 8th House

The 8th House rules other people's money, like debts, taxes, and joint finances. With a New Moon here, you may have to deal with any of those. It's a good time to pay off debt or get money that's owed to you, as well as get a loan or line of credit (just make sure it's one you need and not for you to splurge). This house also rules transformations, so you may make some sort of transformation of yourself or life; you may not need to necessarily get rid of things, but just tweak them to make them work. Sometimes a total overhaul isn't necessary, and a small renovation is all that's needed. If you don't have to tear things down to get it to work, then don't. Your sex drive can increase, but casual sex won't cut it – you'll need an intense experience. Intensity is accompanied with this position, in all facets of life, because you approach things in a more powerful manner. You look beneath the surface to try and find what's really there, and if there's nothing to find, you can be disappointed. You may feel your personality is a bit 'darker' during this time if you struggle with who you are internally.

New Moon in the 9th House

The 9th House rules expansion of the higher self through higher education and philosophy, so a New Moon here could have you wanting to expand your mind and life by exploring new cultures, ways of living, and perspectives. The status quo is no longer satisfying you, and you want to do something extraordinary. You feel more adventurous, and want to push the limits of your mind. Your spirituality may undergo a change, as you want to explore your beliefs thoroughly and represent them as much as possible. Long distance travel is a 9th House matter, so you could have an opportunity to travel far or just have the desire to, or spend time with people from other foreign places or try exotic cuisine. The 9th House also rules the law, so legal matters can come into play. This isn't the best time for long-term plans, so don't commit yourself to something that won't be over quickly. Also don't try to do something that requires you to pay close attention to the details; you're more interested in the broader scope right now. If you're a writer, this is an especially good time for your craft, and the 9th House actually rules publishing.

New Moon in the 10th House

The 10th House rules your career, life path, and authority figures. A New Moon here could show career advancement, a change in your life path, or dealing with a superior. Present yourself as best you can at all times because you may find people are watching you more than normal, especially for your work and accomplishments. It's difficult to keep things hidden at this time, so try to keep things on the straight-and-narrow. If there's gossip going around about you, ask yourself why. It can be truer than you think during this time. It can be an auspicious period for a raise or promotion, or to start a new career path. You'll have the energy to do it, and you'll likely be quite busy with everything you have to get done. Don't get overwhelmed by how much you have to do, and delegate when needed. Sometimes the energy can be intense, and you can become stressed. When you have many important tasks at hand, stay focused on the most important and keep track as best you can. Long-term professional goals can be formulated now that are more realistic, attainable, and will help get you further in your job and life.

New Moon in the 11th House

The 11th House rules your friendships, so you may spend time with a friend when you have a New Moon in your 11th House. You'll feel more honest with them and any new acquaintances you make, and this may endear them to you. With your close friends, you may find yourself more emotional than normal, but let it out, because they may be more responsive than you think. Be social, both personally and professionally. Broadening your network of friends and business associates can be prosperous. It's a good time to join a new organization or group, especially if it's geared towards helping humanity or the world at large. You may want to help others, but in more of an abstract way, like donating to a cause, rather than one-on-one attention. You may be interested in those far different from you, being more tolerant and open, or at least curious. Exploring your dreams can come into focus, and it can be good to re-evaluate where you want to go in the future. All your hopes and wishes could be of focus, and you may realize some, get rid of some, change some, add some, or commit further to some.

New Moon in the 12th House

The 12th House is a house of service, so it's a good time to volunteer or help someone else with a New Moon here. This house rules hidden things, so dealings with secrets can occur. Make sure you're watching what you say carefully, or you might let something slip accidentally. You could do more work behind-the-scenes, feeling like taking a backseat or that things need to remain quiet to get done what must get done. Just make sure you're being open and honest, and if you're dealing with someone else, they're being totally honest too. You may also want to spend some time alone working on yourself, allowing yourself time to replenish the self. Sometimes seclusion is the only way we can repair, getting away from the distractions of life and down to the nitty-gritty. It's a good time to clear your mind, for all manner of healing, and therapy. Your ability to explore your subconscious is high at this time, and it's a good idea to use it, since the next New Moon will most likely occur in your 1st House, which has much more activity, and you'll have less of a chance to do so.
