

A pineapple is the central background element. A pair of round, grey-rimmed glasses is superimposed over the lower half of the pineapple, with the lenses positioned over the crown of the fruit. The text '2023' is written in a large, black, outlined font across the top of the pineapple's crown. Below it, the word 'HOROSCOPES' is written in a bold, yellow, sans-serif font, also across the crown area.

2023 in General:

The big thing for 2023 is Pluto on the move, starting its entrance into air sign Aquarius on March 23rd. Pluto in Aquarius is more focused on the future, the collective, and we can become much more invested in what the future holds. What we transform can specifically be for the sake of the future. Just 2 weeks before on March 7th, Saturn also changes signs, moving from Aquarius to Pisces, and we can work to ground our imagination and spirituality, and we can become more practical about it. We may have to work on letting go, releasing, and understanding the past with Pisces being the last sign. Pluto and Saturn changing signs so close together is HUGE energy, so this is sure to be a big period around then. Pluto will return to Capricorn on June 11th, and is actually anaretic (at 29 degrees) in Capricorn much of the year, so we can see monumental transformations of countries, governments, institutions, corporations, powerful people, and the status quo. Jupiter in Aries until May 16th helps us take initiative and start anew, while Jupiter in Taurus joins Uranus and pushes for more opportunities to change our resources, values, and what's needed for stability and security.

ARIES 2023 HOROSCOPE

Aries 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

The year begins with Ceres touring your relationship and commitment sector, and this helps you be more nurturing and supportive of those in your life, and to bring more nurturing energy to your relationships. You can care a great deal about the relationships you have with those you're closest to, both personal and professional, and want to feel you're getting something meaningful out of it.

Ceres will retrograde (appear to move backward) in this sector February through late March, and this can be a period that gives you the chance to reflect on your relationships and partnerships, and figure out what needs improvements, or what you may need to let go of. Others may demand more from you, so you may need to put up some good boundaries.

Venus also tests your relationships in 2023, and retrogrades in your love sector mid-May to mid-July, and this can stir up love issues that may need to be worked on. You can focus on trying to have healthier connections in love so it's not flowing just one way, and work on old love trauma or love karma. These retrogrades can be good for reconnecting with loved ones, with your heart, and with your nurturing side, if these things have been neglected lately.

Ceres comes back to your relationship and commitment sector late June through mid-September, and you can make any fixes needed, and bring that nurturing energy back in a healthier way. Mars follows up, touring your relationship and commitment sector end of August through mid-October, and you can feel energized and motivated to focus on your relationships, be committed, and you can feel more driven when you have a partner to help you.

A solar eclipse occurs in your relationship and commitment sector October 14th, and this can bring new opportunities to enter into new partnerships and new commitments, to renew existing commitments, and to meet new people. You may have opportunities presented to you that involve working for or with others.

A lunar eclipse occurs in your intimacy sector on May 5th, and this can be a deeply emotional time where you have some deeply-held issues to work on, especially issues around intimacy, closeness, and passion. You may feel the need to walk away from someone you no longer feel you have a healthy connection with, and this may be a focus for the first half of 2023 with this eclipse and the two retrogrades. This can be emotional, but you may feel it's absolutely necessary to find a way of moving forward positively.

Ceres tours your intimacy sector mid-September to late November, and Mars tours this sector mid-October to late November. This can be a great time for cultivating emotional bonds with those you're closest to, and to improving intimacy in your relationships. You can strive to grow as close as you can, to understand those you love better, and to improve your connections.

Aries 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Pluto is on the move in 2023, so it starts the year in your career sector, where it's been for over a decade, and exits late March. Pluto re-enters mid-June and stays for the rest of 2023. This is a time where major chapters or entire books are coming to a close in your life revolving around your goals, your direction, what you want out of life, and who you ultimately want to be. You should have made strides with these things over the last decade, made some important transformations.

Mercury is retrograde to start 2023 (as of December 29th 2022) in your career sector to mid-January, and is retrograde in this sector again briefly in mid-December. These can kick up some major energy for you to do anything that you haven't gotten around to yet, that you've been pushing off and pushing off and pushing off. It's now-or-never kind of energy. It may feel like a test, it may feel overwhelming, and it may feel stifling. But Pluto wants you to have more control, and Mercury's going to come in and help push you to take the reins or miss out.

All 3 Mercury retrogrades impact your professional areas, with those two impacting your career sector, and Mercury retrograde late August to mid-September impacting your work sector, and late April to mid-May impacting your money sector. That's traditionally a great time for a major change professionally, and you can embark on a whole new career path, find great new ways of making money, or revamp your work schedule or environment. Everything staying the same usually isn't the way to go with the retrogrades, so if you're happy with the way things are, try to focus on smaller changes you can make, little tweaks here and there. If you hate what you do, you'll likely hate it even more and feel forced to make some sort of change. Be wise about it.

Ceres retrograde hits your work sector as well, late March to early May, so it has some overlap with the Mercury retrograde in your money sector. This may be a time when you're not feeling as connected to what you're doing, if you don't like what you do. You may feel you're not being compensated properly, or you don't have the resources you need to do the work the way you want to, or you're getting too many responsibilities shoved on you. It's important for you to be doing something daily that you enjoy during this time. If that's not your work, you can find something else. But anything you have to deal with daily that you don't like, likely gets hit. Try to be creative in how to improve this.

Ceres will stay in your work sector until late June, and you can focus on trying to find that connection. Mars helps out, touring your work sector mid-July to late August, and you can be energized to pursue work that excites you, that you're enthusiastic about, and that you want to take the initiative with. It can be great for new projects and new work opportunities.

Financially, you get a good deal of help in 2023 with Jupiter moving into your money sector mid-May and staying for the rest of the year. Jupiter joins Uranus, who has been in this sector for a few years now. Uranus and Pluto have wanted you to make big changes, and Jupiter swoops in now for some payoff! You can see financial rewards for work you've done right, and make strides with changes that may have felt slow. You can come up with new ways to improve your financial situation, and may have more opportunities presented to you.

Just make sure to watch the Mercury retrograde in your money sector before this starts (late April to mid-May). Be smart and cautious during that time, and Jupiter comes in right after and brings helpful energy. A lunar eclipse occurs on October 28th in your money sector, and this can bring rewards for financial decisions you've made and actions you've taken where you did your homework. If you didn't or acted impulsively, this may be a time of setbacks, however with Jupiter helping out, they may not be quite so large.

Aries 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Mars is in your home and family sector mid-March to mid-May, and you can feel motivated to focus on home and family matters. You may want to spend more time at home or do things to improve your living situation, move, redecorate or renovate, or have someone live with you or move out. You may spend more time with family or those you think of as family, and you can feel energized when you are with those you're most comfortable with and who support you.

If you have children, the Venus retrograde mid-May to mid-July occurs in the sector ruling your children, and you may find they're more rebellious, their energy is all over the place, and you have a lot less patience with them, but you need more of it. They may be lazy at times, then bounce off of the wall, and test your patience, but you need to remain the parent. They may need you for something, some challenging situation they end up in, and you can be there as the supportive parent. This can help them feel more secure.

Aries 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Mars begins 2023 retrograde in one of the sectors ruling your mind, until mid-January. This begins at the end of October 2022, and you may be extra frustrated, easily thrown, prone to fights, and have difficulty controlling your mental energy, and see it go too high and too low. You may need to tackle mental issues, bad memories, and work through finding new ways of expressing yourself. Mars stays in this sector until late March, and you have some time to reset your mind, improve communicating, and regain a positive outlook.

Both Mars and Ceres enter one of the sectors ruling your mind mid-November to end the year, and Mercury partially retrogrades in this sector in late December. Mars and Ceres bring energy for big ideas, big plans, and optimism, and you can enjoy communicating big stories and big plans with others. You may want to expand your mind, take in new knowledge, and share the knowledge you gain. With Mercury retrograde, you can tackle issues around expanding your mind, and may need some space, at least mentally, from others. Just make sure you don't push too far.

Neptune remains in the sector ruling your subconscious mind all of 2023, and is no longer accompanied by Jupiter (exits mid-December 2022, so just before 2023 starts). Neptune has been in this sector for a while, and helps you to connect to your subconscious mind quietly, to let go of the past, and to bring old issues to an end. Your intuition can remain strong, especially if you worked to strengthen it in 2022.

Saturn enters this sector early March for the rest of the year, and you can get more serious about subconscious issues and work on clearing out a lot of baggage. Saturn in this sector is a time for major cleaning and clearing, but of your mind and soul. Work to understand more of the past, and get to a place where you can move on, finally.

Aries 2023 General Horoscope

Your ruler, Mars, is retrograde to start 2023 until January 12th, and this likely has you starting the new year feeling quite off. You may struggle with getting focused, especially mentally, and committing to any specific plans. It's likely better for you to wait until the retrograde ends, so your mind can be clear and ready to go.

Jupiter is in your sign to start 2023 until May 16th, and this only just started before 2023 began, so it can feel fresh. This is a great time for new beginnings, new chapters, new projects, new opportunities, and new journeys. You can jump at the chance for anything new, and take initiative for what you want. You can be extra optimistic about life, and feel good about your chances. This may not feel like it right away in 2023 though with Mars retrograde, but after that ends, you can start to feel it. This happens once every 12 years, so make the most of it.

A solar eclipse occurs in your sign on April 20th, and this is the first solar eclipse in your sign since March 2006! It comes with Jupiter still in your sign and Mars no longer retrograde, so this can amplify the energy for new beginnings, new journeys, and new opportunities.

This eclipse occurs at a sensitive spot, so it has much higher energy than usual, and you may feel so inspired to take action for what you want that you may not think it through completely. Make sure to do that, or maybe make your plan in advance so you don't have to worry. Don't let impulse be your undoing.

A solar eclipse occurred at the same sensitive position in Aries in April 2004, so if you were alive then, go back and see what developments occurred in your life to get an idea of the energy with this one in 2023.

TAURUS 2023 HOROSCOPE

Taurus 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Ceres retrogrades (appears to move backward) in your love sector late March to early May, and this can be a time when you reassess your love relationships. Is the love in your life healthy? Does it contribute to your life in positive ways? Is the flow of energy mutual and flowing both ways? Are old love issues causing present-day problems?

You can take a harder look at love in 2023, and try to figure out what you need to improve on. Love needs to nurture you, support you, and make you aware of the good things about you with Ceres, and you may give that more attention as the retrograde ends and Ceres stays in this sector until late June. Mars tours your love sector mid-July to late August, and this gives energy and drive for love and affection, and you can crave more of this in your life.

Coming out of that, Mercury will also retrograde in your love sector late August to mid-September, and this can bring your attention back to the issues that need to be addressed. It's another shot at improving and reconnecting with your heart. This retrograde energy can be helpful if there's an old flame you want to reconnect with. Existing love relationships may need more care.

A lunar eclipse occurs on May 5th in your relationship and commitment sector, and this can bring some issues in existing relationships and partnerships to the head. You can decide if you want to put in the work to make things better, or if you want to walk away. You can become much more aware of the status of your relationships, for better or worse. Healthy relationships can grow stronger, and you may commit yourself more.

Ceres tours your relationship and commitment sector mid-September to late November, and Mars tours this sector as well mid-October to late November. You may have extra energy and drive for your relationships, to be there for the people in your life, and to spend more time with others. You can work to find a balance between your relationships and your responsibilities, and you can feel better when you have greater balance. You may be more nurturing and supportive of others, and crave more of that in return. Your relationships overall can help you feel more secure.

Both Mars and Ceres enter your intimacy sector in late November for the rest of 2023, and this can bring your focus to improving emotional bonds with loved ones. You can feel a strong desire to be as close as possible, and to understand them better. You may be a little intense in this focus, so try to avoid becoming clingy. Mercury retrogrades in this sector briefly in late December, and this may expose intimacy issues that need to be addressed. You can work on tackling them, making transformations as needed, and doing the hard work that needs to be done.

Taurus 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Saturn starts 2023 still in your career sector, but exits in early March. Over the last 2-3 years, you may have felt like you've had super focus for your goals and your direction in life, and if you've done things right, you may have achieved some success. If you didn't do things right, you may have had to scrap your plans and start all over again. If you did start over again and adjusted correctly, there can be some room for success before Saturn exits.

As one planet exits, another takes its place, in this scenario. Saturn exits your career sector early March, and Pluto begins its stay in your career sector late March through mid-June. Pluto in this sector demands you focus on goals that you're passionate about and can really throw yourself into. If you're not passionate about it, you may lose any and all interest very fast. You need a strong connection with your goals, to feel a deep bond with them, and to feel like you're doing something important, even if it's on a small scale. You may need to transform in some way over the next 1-2 years in order to achieve your goals, and this can be a challenge at times, but you can grow stronger because of it. You may eventually be seen as someone who is very wise, who commands respect, and who has achieved a certain status.

Mars is retrograde as the year begins in your money sector, which began late October 2022, and lasts until mid-January 2023. This likely stirred up some financial issues that needed to be addressed, or some financial developments you needed to adjust to and be flexible with. Mars remains in your money sector to late March, so you may turn things around quickly with your finances, and can be presented with financial opportunities and rewards for being smart. This comes as Saturn is exiting the career sector, so the hard work and smart choices with Saturn may pay off with Mars before they move on.

Ceres starts the year in your work sector, and retrogrades in this sector early February to mid-March. This can make you crave work that you feel supports you, whether it's emotionally, mentally, or financially. If you don't have that, you may have less interest in what you're pursuing. You need to be nurtured via your work, and you can gravitate toward work that does that for you. This can be a time when you want to do work again that you did in the past and felt rewarded for. Ceres comes back to your work sector late June to mid-September, and this can help you get on the right track with the work you want to do.

Mars tours your work sector late August to mid-October, and you may have lots of extra energy and drive for work. You can be much more productive, tackle as much work as possible, and the more you finish, the more you may take on. It can motivate you to keep going. You can get through lots of smaller projects as a result. At the end, a solar eclipse occurs in your work sector October 14th, and this may signal a time of work opportunities, new work that you're enthusiastic about, or new work responsibilities that come with rewards. You can get excited and feel rejuvenated.

Taurus 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Venus is going to retrograde in your home and family sector late July to early September. This may bring some frustrating energy for home and family matters, and you may struggle with dealing with issues that come up with home. You may not want to spend a lot of time at home, or are unable to for some reason (like working more or travel). You may spend more time in places that don't feel very comfortable or supportive, and this can throw you off emotionally, so you need to be more flexible, but may end up feeling more stubborn about it.

Family or those you think of as family may create some issues for you, and you may have difficulty figuring out what to do about it, or if you even want to do anything about it. You may need to get some space to be more objective, because subjectivity can be an issue during this time. This can be a great period for reconnecting with family you haven't seen in a long time, going to places you've lived before, redecorating or renovating, or living with someone you have before.

If you have children, Ceres retrogrades in the sector ruling your children late March to early May, and your children may be extra rebellious yet also extra needy during this time. You may have less patience for dealing with them, yet need more. Balance may be needed in how you give them attention. Ceres stays in this sector to late June, so you get some time to make things better for them.

But, Mercury retrogrades in this sector late August to mid-September, and this can supercharge their rebellion. You'll need to find patience anywhere you can get it, and continue to be the nurturing, reliable parent. Mars tours this sector in the middle of Ceres and Mercury, mid-July to late August, and they may demand more attention from you, but you can enjoy giving it to them, and may help them with whatever issues come up, or see them get attention for something.

Taurus 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Mars tours one of the sectors that rules your mind late March to mid-May, and this can give you lots of extra mental energy. You can come up with lots of new ideas, take action with them quickly, put together new plans, and gather new information you need. You can be open with information you have, and want to share knowledge with others. The previous few months may have felt slow, and this can be a time when energy finally picks up and you're moving more quickly.

Pluto is nearing the end of its time in the other sector ruling the mind, staying until late March, and re-entering mid-June for the rest of 2023. You've likely been developing an expertise in something over the last decade, and have gathered as much knowledge as possible so you can become as knowledgeable as possible. You may have spent more time teaching, speaking, or writing, and being more open with your wisdom and experiences. You've likely become strong in this area.

Mercury retrogrades in this sector to start the year to mid-January, and then again briefly mid-December, and this may bring more attention to your beliefs, your opinions, and what you're passionate about. You can get more serious about what you want to devote yourself to, and sort through blocks.

Jupiter is in the sector ruling your subconscious mind to start 2023 until mid-May, and you can explore your subconscious mind, work on old subconscious issues or baggage, and start to understand and move on, or find a way to work with it that is manageable. You can quietly work on setting yourself up so you have less baggage when Jupiter moves into your sign.

A solar eclipse also occurs in this sector April 20th, and this can be super helpful energy for letting go of baggage, releasing karma, and eliminating emotional crutches that have held you back. You can feel much freer, lighter, and positive on a soul level. You can also be highly intuitive around this time, so pay attention to any hits you're getting.

Taurus 2023 General Horoscope

Uranus continues its movement through your Zodiac sign all of 2023, and you can continue to make major changes in various aspects of your life and personality. You're likely open to big changes, and to embracing the unconventional, but can go about it in your own way. You can feel more independent, and more true to yourself. Those of you born May 4th - 14th can get a direct impact from Uranus to your natal Sun in 2023.

Mercury retrogrades in your sign late April to mid-May, and you may feel like lots of little things are coming up and throwing you off. There can be a million things for you to do, and you may be overwhelmed very easily. This can be a trying time for anything new, but excellent for second chances and do overs.

Jupiter then moves into your sign mid-May, to stay for the rest of the year, and you can light up. You can focus on new beginnings, new journeys, and new ventures, and can pursue opportunities that are presented to you, of which there may be plenty. You can take the initiative and create what you want for yourself too. This is an energizing time of optimism and big plans, and it only comes along once every 12 years or so, which means, make the most of it while you can!

A lunar eclipse occurs in your sign on October 28th, and it's the last eclipse in your sign for many years, so this can bring some major endings and culminations in your life. You can see the results of what you've done, and may experience major rewards and success, and feel good about where you're going; or may experience major setbacks and delays, and need to reassess what you're doing. Your emotions may run a lot higher, and you may need to take some time off to rest, take care of your own needs, and prioritize yourself.

Venus, your ruler, is retrograde late July through early September, so in addition to it impacting your home and family life, you may also feel off during this time with Venus being your ruler. You may need to go easy on yourself and others, and if you feel you're getting overwhelmed, try to get breaks or ask for help.

You can also give more attention to your future and dreams with Saturn moving into that sector early March, joining Neptune who is in that sector all year and has been for a while. Saturn demands you to start pursuing your dreams and turning them into reality, and that you create realistic plans to make them happen, and then work in a disciplined, ethical manner. Without that, you may become pessimistic about your future, and give up on your dreams, but that's not what Saturn wants. Saturn wants you to have it, you just need to go about it the way Saturn demands, and be smart, do your homework, be practical, and do it right. Neptune helps give you an assist from your intuition when needed.

GEMINI 2023 HOROSCOPE

Gemini 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Ceres begins 2023 in your love sector, and this helps you to be more supportive of the people you care about, more affectionate and loving, and want to help out as much as you can. You may feel like providing more for the people in your life who really need it most. Ceres turns retrograde (appears to move backward) in this sector early February through late March, and this can bring out issues around nourishment and support with your loved ones. Are you doing enough, or too much? Are they giving as well, or only taking? Are you taking too much? Balance needs to be struck no matter what.

Ceres comes back to this sector after the retrograde late June through mid-September, and this is where you can address any issues that came up during the retrograde, find solutions, and get everything set up well with others for a long time to come. Mars helps as Mars tours this sector late August to mid-October, and you have energy and drive for love, affection, and joy. This energy can help you bring more joy to your life.

At the end of Mars in your love sector, a solar eclipse occurs on October 14th in your love sector, and this can bring opportunities for new love, whether people or hobbies or projects, and you can greatly enjoy love in your life and want to expand it.

Mars and Ceres will both enter your relationship and commitment sector in late November for the rest of 2023, and this can help you nurture your relationships and be more comfortable with commitment. If single, you may focus on connections that seem like they will lead to commitment down the road. If in a relationship, commitment may be strengthened. Mercury partially retrogrades in this sector in late December though, so some relationship issues may pop up, and you may have difficulties dealing with others. You may need patience, and to focus on what you missed earlier in the year with the Ceres retrograde.

Pluto is nearing the end of its time in your intimacy sector, starting the year in this sector to late March, and coming back mid-June for the rest of 2023. Mercury also retrogrades in this sector as 2023 starts to mid-January, and again in mid-December. Pluto has likely brought massive transformations into your life in many areas, including intimacy and your emotional bonds with others, and you can see how this has culminated now. The Mercury retrogrades can bring up any lingering issues that haven't been resolved to this point, and you can get to the heart of matters to find a lasting solution.

Gemini 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Neptune remains in your career and life path sector all of 2023, and is joined by Saturn in this sector starting in early March. Neptune is the foggy planet of illusion and fantasy, while Saturn is the responsible planet of reality and ethics. They're fairly opposite to one another, so you may have to work on finding a balance between letting imagination take over and letting reality take over when it comes to your goals and ambitions. You may be super realistic at times, and super flighty at other times.

If Neptune has made it difficult for you to figure out your goals, Saturn can make that possible for you in this sector. Those of you who have been doing things the right way and for the right reasons already can get major rewards in 2023, and you may hit major highs, get major recognition, and make major connections with important people.

Right after Saturn enters your career and life path sector, Mars is in your money sector late March to mid-May, and this can lead to actual financial rewards. You can be presented with new opportunities that pay off in big ways financially, and can get yourself set up. There may be more spending though, so that has to be considered.

On May 5th, a lunar eclipse occurs in your work sector, and this can amplify your emotional connection to the work you do, or lack thereof if you hate it. If you love it, you can make strides, have more opportunities, and see things pay off. If you hate it, you can hate it more, and may look elsewhere. No matter what, you need daily work that you enjoy and feel connected to.

Ceres helps when touring your work sector mid-September to late November, and Mars joins in mid-October to late November. These two can bring energy and drive for work that you feel nourishes you, and you can use your work to enrich your life in new ways. If you decide to try for new work, this may be your priority, something that helps open up your life and world somehow.

Gemini 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Ceres will retrograde in your home and family sector late March to early May, and this may bring out challenges with home and family matters. You may have misunderstandings with family, have to take on extra responsibilities, or have little things pop up at home. You may not feel as supported by family or those you think of as family, and need to get to the heart of why that is. Try to give yourself the emotional support you need. Ceres stays in this sector until late June, so you can work to get things back on track and reconnect with family.

Mars tours your home and family sector shortly afterwards, mid-July to late August, and you can focus on home improvement projects, moving, renovating, or improving your living situation. You may plan for extra time with family, and can be extra supportive. You may feel driven and energized when you have a solid home and family life, and this can inspire you to take action elsewhere.

But coming out of that, Mercury retrogrades in your home and family sector late August to mid-September, and this can bring challenges to the surface again. You may miss some of the issues during Ceres retrograde, and they come back up again, wanting you to find solutions. If you address everything properly with the Ceres retrograde, the Mercury retrograde can offer the opportunity to reconnect with family or your living space, to go back somewhere you lived before, or reconnect with someone you lived with before.

Gemini 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Venus will retrograde in one of the sectors ruling your mind late July to early September, and focus may be lacking in a big way during this time. You may not want to get control over your mind, and you may lack energy to do anything about it anyway. You're likely mentally lazy, and it can be a good time for a break if you can get it. If you can't, make sure to reread everything twice, and work on improving your listening skills. Mars is in this sector just beforehand, mid-May to mid-July, and this can give you the opportunity to take action with your ideas and plans in advance, and do what you can to make strides so you're not scrambling during Venus retrograde.

Saturn is in one of the other sectors ruling your mind to start the year until early March, and leaves for good. You've likely had to clear out mental issues, old mental baggage, understand how your mind works, improve your communication style, and become more practical in the last two years. You can welcome this coming to a close, and your mental energy can open up to bigger ideas and bigger projects again. Meanwhile Pluto begins its tour of this sector late March to mid-June, and you can become more powerful in the way you present ideas and opinions. You can hold steady to your beliefs, and if you don't connect with them, you can dump them and find new ones that align with you now.

Uranus remains in the sector ruling your subconscious mind all of 2023, and you can continue to make changes with your subconscious issues, release baggage, and take an unconventional approach to letting go, or let go quickly and easily. A lunar eclipse occurs in this sector October 28th, and this can bring massive energy for letting go. You can dig deep into your subconscious, gain flashes of insight and understanding, and this can help you feel comfortable with moving on.

Mercury also retrogrades in this sector mid-April to mid-May, and you can become more aware of issues that need to be addressed, and they can be let go of with the lunar eclipse. Jupiter also moves into this sector mid-May, with the end of the retrograde, so you can start working through even more and clearing out even more. 2023 is a big clearing year for you, and this can prepare you for when Jupiter moves to your sign in 2024.

Gemini 2023 General Horoscope

2023 starts with Mars retrograde in your sign, and this began at the end of October 2022 and lasts until January 12th 2023. This can bring lots of challenging energy with your energy and drive, and you may be so easily frustrated and annoyed and pushed over the edge to end 2022 and start 2023.

You likely need to have some healthy outlets for frustrations throughout the retrograde, and to focus your energy on something productive, while also giving yourself breaks so you're not going too far. If anger is really getting the better of you, you may need to ask yourself why that is, and work on the core problem. Those of you Geminis born May 28th to June 1st can feel the end of Mars retrograde most.

Jupiter is in Aries until mid-May, and this lights up your friendship and dreams sector. You can meet lots of new friends and acquaintances, and you can expand your social circle quite a bit. You can pursue opportunities that get you closer to your dreams, and you can be open to unconventional methods and approaches. This may be strongest with the solar eclipse in Aries on April 20th, and you may jump at the chance to make a dream reality. This does come with Mercury, your ruler, retrograde in Taurus though, so this may be something you stay in the background for initially, and you have to be smart with your energy.

You can feel off with your ruler retrograde, which occurs to start the year until mid-January, mid-April to mid-May, late August to mid-September, and the second half of December. All impact your emotional sectors, so you may need to tend to your emotional self during these retrogrades.

CANCER 2023 HOROSCOPE

Cancer 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Pluto has been in your relationships and commitment sector for many years now, and you're coming to the end of this. Pluto begins 2023 in this sector, leaves late March, and comes back mid-June for the rest of the year (on-and-off in 2024 as well before fully exiting). Pluto in this sector has likely brought about major and massive changes and transformations in your dealings with others and your relationships. What you want and need in a relationship, what you're willing to give, what commitment looks like to you, who you grow close with has likely all changed. You've seen people come and go from your life, and realized what's most important in who you invest your time and emotions in.

Mercury begins 2023 retrograde (appearing to move backward) in your relationships and commitment sector until mid-January, and again retrogrades in this sector in mid-December. This can bring out any relationship or commitment issues you haven't worked on yet, and you can become more aware of what needs a solution. This can also bring some people back into your life, but it's up to you to decide if they're back for a reason or to stay.

Late March to mid-June, Pluto will begin to tour your intimacy sector, and Saturn has been in this sector for the last couple of years, and stays until early March. Saturn has likely brought out intimacy issues that you've had to address, and you may have felt you lacked the kind of intimacy you wanted and needed in your life.

If you've learned the lessons, then Saturn exiting can help open you back up and bring in healthier intimate connections, and strengthen existing ones. Pluto moving to this sector can bring out passion and intensity, but also more power struggles and others who want to control you, so you may find a big transformation is needed to work through that.

A lunar eclipse occurs on May 5th in your love sector, and this can help you grow closer with those you love if you have a solid, healthy connection with them. If you lack that, you may grow further apart. This can be emotional, but it can lead to a better outcome, one way or the other, as you gain more understanding of your love needs.

Ceres tours your love sector mid-September to late November, and Mars tours mid-October to late November, so you can have lots more energy and drive to be around your loved ones, want to expand the love in your life, and can be more nurturing and supportive of those you love. This can be a great time for romance, and if single, you may want someone who both energizes you and takes care of you; if in a relationship, you may tend more to your partner's needs, and make more time to ignite sparks.

Cancer 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Jupiter starts 2023 in your career and life path sector, staying here until mid-May, and this can be excellent for opportunities to succeed and advance. You can focus on new goals, make important new connections, make good impressions, get recognition for what you've done, and hit new heights. This gets a boost with a solar eclipse in this sector on April 20th, and you can feel extra ambitious, driven, and focused. You can put together new long-term plans, and can hit your stride.

Mars tours your money sector mid-May to mid-July, and this can bring more energy and drive to make more money, but also spend more, so do watch that. You can focus on financial plans, investments, and arrangements, and this can be a time where you make extra doing something on the side. You may see more rewards for the goals you've been advancing coming out of Jupiter in your career and life path sector, and you can see if you've made the right choices.

Venus will retrograde in your money sector though, late July to early September. This can bring out any financial challenges, so if you've been ignoring something financial or made some poor choices, this can become apparent now. You may feel like splurging more, but this can get you in trouble. There may be extra little things that you need to spend money on, so try to save up before the retrograde starts, if you can. Be flexible and try not to let stubbornness keep you from solving problems.

The year ends with focus on your work as Mars and Ceres both enter your work sector in late November, and Mercury retrogrades in your work sector in late December. Mars brings energy and drive for your work, for doing work that you're enthusiastic about, and for getting lots of work done. Ceres brings energy for doing work that nourishes you, and that rewards you well. With Mercury retrograde in the mix, you may struggle if you don't feel you're doing work that you're enthusiastic about or that nourishes you, and you may want to make a big change. Just try to think it through before taking action.

Cancer 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Ceres begins 2023 in your home and family sector, and this is excellent energy for home and family matters since Ceres is so nurturing. You can be extra supportive of your family or the people you think of as family, and you can do more to help them with whatever they need, and can be willing to do it. You may be more responsible for home and family matters, and can be the ones others look to. You can work on improving things at home so the environment is more comfortable and makes you feel like you have a safe space.

This gets wonky though as Ceres turns retrograde in early February, and is retrograde in this sector until late March. You may feel disconnected from your family or home, and things may seem out of sorts. This can make you feel off emotionally, and your core may seem shaken in some way. You can feel like you lack support that you desperately need, and this can make you more frustrated and overwhelmed. This likely has a source, some old trauma or event or issue, so try to get to the core of it. If you can work on that, you can make improvements.

The retrograde can be good for renovations, remodeling, and redecorating, or moving to somewhere you've lived before, or living with someone you have before, or having family stay with you. Ceres comes back to this sector after the retrograde mid-June to mid-September, and you can manage home and family matters with more discipline and wisdom.

Mars overlaps with Ceres for about a month and tours your home and family sector late August to mid-October. This can give you lots of energy and drive for tackling home and family matters, and you can feel more energized at home or with family, and more driven to help your family. You can work on spending more time with family or at home, and it can be a good time for a family gathering or event.

At the end of Mars in this sector, a solar eclipse occurs in your home and family sector on October 14th, and this can shine a light on your home and family life in new ways. You may expand your family, improve your living situation, plan a move, or plan for more time with family. You can feel much more supported emotionally as well, and this can help you take on more and be someone your family can count on.

Cancer 2023 Mental State Horoscope

2023 is an interesting year for your mind, and it begins right away with Mars retrograde in the sector ruling your subconscious mind to mid-January. This begins late October of 2022, so it's been going on for a couple of months by the time 2023 starts. Mars first entered this sector in August 2022, and stays in it until late March 2023, after the regrade ends, so it's major focus on your subconscious mind for a prolonged period of time.

There are likely old issues that you need to work on, old baggage from the past, old trauma that needs to be dissected and understood, and subconscious issues, motivations, and desires can become much more apparent. This can be unnerving, and you can feel off in a way that is difficult to describe, but always present. You likely need to make yourself face some of these things, work to understand and grow, and let go of some of it. This is a big period for moving on, and whatever facilitates that in a healthy way is likely what you need to embrace.

Ceres is also retrograde in one of the sectors ruling your mind from late March to early May, and this can make you feel mentally unsupported. You may be uncertain and insecure about your ideas and plans, and question yourself. You may need to work on deeper issues related to your mind or communication, and either need to learn to be more confident in your expression, or learn to be a better listener. Ceres stays in this sector to late June, so you get some time to nurture your mind after the retrograde ends.

Mars then tours the same sector mid-July to late August, and this gives your mind a needed boost of energy and drive. You can take action with your ideas and plans, start learning something new, and get excited about information and knowledge. You can share what you know with others, and you can see what gets your mind going.

But then, Mercury retrogrades in the same sector late August to mid-September, so coming out of Mars being here, and this can stir up some issues with expression, communication, being mentally disciplined, and controlling your mind. You may struggle with any of these, and any issues that are left that you haven't worked on, you can now. So, all of this retrograde energy means you're doing some deep-cleaning of your mind!

Meanwhile Neptune remains in the other sector ruling your mind, and this can help you connect to your imagination, and you can enjoy higher learning and sharing wisdom with others. Saturn joins Neptune in this sector starting early March, and you can work on being more realistic and practical with the big picture. Your view of the big picture can become crystal clear, but you may need to avoid being overly pessimistic at times. Work on bringing together optimism and reality.

Cancer 2023 General Horoscope

Mars will tour your sign, Cancer, March 25th to May 20th 2023, and this is a great time full of high energy and enthusiasm. You can get excited about new possibilities, and can create opportunities for yourself. Mars in your sign is a time for new beginnings, a new chapter, and what you embark on during this time can be your focus or set the tone for the next 2 years of your life. Make use of the energy, take initiative, and get moving. This is something you likely desperately need coming out of the Mars retrograde which slowed your energy down and kept you scared of taking action. Mars in your sign can help you take initiative for what you want and go for it.

Uranus remains in the sector ruling your friends and dreams, and this can continue any changes with your friendships, bring new people into your life, and make sudden gains or have sudden insights into your future. Mercury retrogrades in this sector mid-April to mid-May, and you may question where you're going and what you hope for, but it's likely not a good time for important decisions. Try to hold that for after the retrograde.

A lunar eclipse occurs in this sector on October 29th, and you can make great strides with work you've done to get closer to or achieve your dreams, and you may feel like you're on your way. If you're passionate about your dreams and they're right for you, you can become more invested in them; if you're not, then you may decide to walk away. You can also make important decisions with friendships during this time.

LEO 2023 HOROSCOPE

Leo 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Pluto is starting to move to your relationships and commitment sector in 2023, coming to this sector late March to mid-June. This can start a more serious approach to your relationships, and you can take commitment more seriously. You can attract serious people to you, powerful people, but also people who may want to control you, and you have to learn how to hold your own power. You may find massive transformations occur in your relationships, and what you want and need and what you're willing to give comes under the microscope.

Saturn has already been in your relationships and commitment sector for the last couple of years, and moves out in early March, just before Pluto starts. Hopefully, you used the last couple of years to work on your relationships, relationship issues, and sort through old baggage. You've likely learned a lot of hard lessons, and seen some people leave your life. The relationships that endure can stick around for the long haul, and passion can increase thanks to Pluto.

Saturn exits this sector and moves to your intimacy sector in early March, where Neptune has been for some years. Saturn in this sector can make you more serious about the emotional bonds you have with others, and you can focus on strengthening them. If they don't feel healthy and contribute positively to your life, you may let them go. This may mean more people leave your life, but the ones that stick around can be for life. Intimacy can have a strong spiritual connection for you with Neptune here, and you likely want to feel a deep emotional, physical, and spiritual bond with your partner(s). Any intimacy issues can come out, and you can work on them, but they may stem from something old and deep that needs to be unearthed.

2023 ends with focus on love as Mars and Ceres both move to your love sector in late November to end the year. Mars is the planet of energy and drive, while Ceres is support and nourishment, so you can be super supportive, loving, and affectionate with those you love. You can make more time for romance, and can feel at ease when you're connecting with loved ones. This can be a great time for dating, if single; if attached, you can work to reconnect and respark.

Mercury does retrograde (appears to move backward) in your love sector in late December though, so you may become more aware of love issues you need to address quickly. It's only a week, so hopefully any issues that arise are minor and you can push through fast. This can be great for reconnecting with old flames, or for reigniting existing flames.

Leo 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Uranus remains in your career and life path sector for all of 2023, and is joined by Jupiter starting mid-May. This can be excellent for achievement and you may find the second half of 2023 is full of success for you. Opportunities can come your way from many directions, and you can get recognition and make important connections with important people that take you further. You may be looked up to, and be seen as a role model in some way. All of this is great, but it may come with extra responsibilities. You can handle this, just make sure you're leaving room in your plans for breaks.

Mercury retrogrades in your career and life path sector shortly before Jupiter moves in, and there may be some challenges you need to work through before the great energy starts. You may experience a setback, delay, or outright failure that disappoints you, and you may feel like giving up temporarily. Keep up the fight though, because the planets are likely going to give you the opportunity to be a phoenix!

A lunar eclipse occurs on October 28th in your career and life path sector, and this may be a time of great success and rewards if you've done things the right way, and are really invested in what you're doing. You can hit a new height, end up in the spotlight, and feel like you've arrived in some way. On the other hand, if you haven't done things right or your heart isn't in it, you may experience challenges, setbacks, or failures. If that happens, try to look at it as an opportunity to understand what you need to do differently going forward to guarantee that doesn't happen again.

The year starts with Mercury retrograde in your work sector to mid-January, and you may feel you've got a lot on your plate, you're overwhelmed by work that needs to be done, and you need a break. If you can get a break, that's probably a good idea, but if you can't, try to go easy on yourself as you're managing and don't expect perfection. Mercury retrogrades again briefly in your work sector in mid-December, and there may be extra work that needs to be done and a long list of things to do. Watch your stress levels and try to leave some room in your schedule for flexibility.

Pluto is nearing the end of its time in your work sector, exiting in late March and coming back mid-June for the rest of 2023. The last decade has likely prompted you to transform in major ways the work you do, your approach to work, or what the results of your work are. You've likely had to make certain the work you're doing daily is work you're passionate about, and anything less just wasted your time. The Mercury retrogrades to start and end 2023 in your work sector may shine a spotlight on anything you've missed over these years before Pluto moves on, and you do too.

Ceres retrogrades in your money sector late March to early May, and this may be a time of financial stress. You may feel under a lot of pressure, have a lot of financial obligations, and may not feel you have enough (even if you actually do). You may feel like you lack financial support from partners, and everything is falling on you. Try to take a step back, take some of the load off of your shoulders, and be gentle with yourself. Slow down and reconnect with the present and your body. This can help with managing stress.

Ceres remains in this sector to late June, and this gives you a chance to turn things around going into Jupiter and Uranus in your career and life path sector. Mars also starts to help by touring your money sector mid-July to late August, and you may find you make more money, have more financial opportunities, and generally feel better about your financial situation.

Mercury retrogrades in your money sector late August to mid-September though, so you may have one more little issue that needs to be addressed. It's also likely you're just worried about old financial problems coming back, but they don't, it's just worry and stress. Try to keep that under control

All of the Mercury retrogrades as well as Ceres retrograde impacting your professional sectors in 2023, so this is a big year for retrograde energy and your professional life. This may mean you're changing jobs or careers, or going back to a job or profession you used to do (second chance).

Leo 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

A lunar eclipse occurs in your home and family sector on May 5th, and this may bring out emotional energy for you. If you don't feel connected to where you live or to your family, you may be more sensitive, lash out, and need to find some emotional support and comfort. Focus on changes you can make that will make you feel more connected quickly.

If you do feel connected to where you live and to your family, you can feel even more connected with the lunar eclipse. You can enjoy getting more time to be at home or with those you think of as family, and you can be more emotionally at ease, stable, and secure.

Ceres will tour your home and family sector mid-September to late November, and Mars overlaps as it goes through this sector mid-October to late November. Ceres in this sector is great since Ceres rules nourishment and support, so you can be extra supportive and want to help out as much as you can with those you think of as family. You can really be there for them. You can also find they're there for you more too, and you can feel more supported and nurtured. A solid home and family life can be a great foundation for you at this time.

Mars brings its energy and drive so you can be more driven and energized to improve your home life, get more time at home, improve family connections, or spend more time with family. This can be a great time to move, remodel or renovate, and you can welcome new people in your family. You can feel more comfortable and emotionally connected to your family.

Leo 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Ceres begins 2023 in one of the sectors ruling your mind, and this can help you focus on tending to your mind, nurturing your mind, and taking care of your mental needs. This helps once Ceres turns retrograde in early February, and is retrograde in this sector to late March. You may feel your ideas aren't supported, your plans aren't listened to, and your thoughts are ignored. Try to look within for any validation, since this may be difficult to get externally during the retrograde. It may be a good period for working on old ideas or plans again, and for revising.

Ceres comes back to this sector after the retrograde late June to mid-September, and you can work on tending to your mental needs and supporting yourself with your ideas and plans. Mars also tours this sector late August to mid-October, and you may find you have lots more mental energy too. You can think quicker on your feet, and have lots of new ideas to work on and plans to take action with. You can get excited by what you come up with, and want to get moving quickly.

A solar eclipse occurs in this sector on October 14th, and this can bring a brilliant new idea, an opportunity for you to pursue an idea of yours, important new information that is highly beneficial, or some good news you've been waiting on. You can be enthusiastic and focused on the positives.

Jupiter is in another sector ruling the mind to start 2023 until mid-May, and you can be more expansive and focus on the bigger picture. You may be more optimistic in general, and feel it's good to work on your plans. This can be strongest with a solar eclipse in this sector on April 20th, and there may be some big idea you have that you have the chance to do something with, and you can feel more hopeful and positive about what's possible.

Mars tours the sector ruling your subconscious mind late March to mid-May, so this is after Ceres retrograde exits one of the sectors ruling your mind. This can be helpful for digging into your subconscious, working on old issues from the past, and letting go. You can feel ready to release baggage, and the more you do in a healthy way, the more you can feel free and ready to take advantage of any opportunity for success and advancement. You can welcome quiet time and time alone to rest as well.

Leo 2023 General Horoscope

Mars is retrograde to begin 2023 until mid-January, and this began in late October 2022. The retrograde is entirely in Gemini, which is your hopes, dreams, and friends sector. You may start 2023 questioning your future, uncertain of your dreams, and feeling you need to start over. That's probably just the retrograde talking though, so put plans to give up on hold until after the retrograde ends.

Mars will tour your Zodiac sign late May to mid-July, and this can give you a big surge of energy for starting new projects and ventures. Mars in your sign happens roughly every two years, and it's a great time for new beginnings that you can work on for the next two years. Focus on what excites you, animates you, you feel most driven to do, and then work on smart action to get started. You can take the initiative and don't have to wait for someone else to do it for you.

Coming out of that though, Venus will retrograde in your sign July 22nd to September 3rd. This can slow your energy down considerably, and you may lack a work ethic, feel stuck, and can be impatient and impulsive but also stubborn and obstinate. You likely need to give yourself a break, and not expect yourself to do too much. Now, this energy can be excellent for second chances, as any retrogrades in your sign are. So, think about what you'd like a second chance with, and try to plan to take action during this retrograde.

Those of you Leos born August 19th and later can feel the start of the retrograde most, and those of you Leo born between August 2nd and 7th can feel the end of the retrograde most.

VIRGO 2023 HOROSCOPE

Virgo 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Neptune remains in your relationships and commitment sector for 2023, continuing a focus on spiritual connections and karmic relationships, and bringing people to your life who are Neptune-like (spiritual, artistic, wounded birds, etc.).

Saturn moves into this sector in early March, and this can make you much more serious about your relationships and commitment, and any relationship and commitment issues and baggage you have may be brought out. Saturn is the planet of lessons, so if there are lessons to learn with relationships or commitment, you may be forced to learn them.

You can grow closer and become more committed to those you have a healthy relationship with thanks to Saturn, and it can become more solid. On the other hand, any relationships that aren't solid may need more attention, and you have to improve them or see them exit your life.

Pluto has been in your love sector for over a decade, and this is nearing an end as Pluto is in this sector to late March, and comes back again mid-June for the rest of 2023. Pluto in your love sector has likely made you more passionate in love and about love, and you only have interest in love that has strong intimacy. You may have dealt with some obsessive people in the last decade, or had to manage your own intensity in love.

Mercury begins 2023 retrograde (appearing to move backward) in your love sector to mid-January, and again retrogrades in your love sector in mid-December, and this may bring out any love issues that you've avoided in the last decade. It can dig up anything you've been shoving away with love, and you can work to release. This can also be a good time to reconnect with loved ones and old flames.

Jupiter is in your intimacy sector to start 2023 until mid-May, so intimacy is likely something you're quite comfortable with thanks to Jupiter being here and Pluto in your love sector. With Jupiter, you can expand on intimacy in your life, deepening bonds and growing closer with those you love. Physical intimacy can also be more important to you, and you may have more options available to you.

A solar eclipse occurs in your intimacy sector on April 20th, and this can push you to become more emotionally invested and strengthen emotional bonds with others. You can be more serious about your connections, but in a lighter way that doesn't weigh you down. You can also make an important decision regarding an intimate relationship or connection.

Virgo 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

2023 begins with Mars retrograde in your career and life path sector, something that began at the end of October 2022. 2022 ends and 2023 begins with challenging energy for you professionally, and you may question the goals you've been working on, experience setbacks, delays, or failure, or get pushed back so you lose momentum. You may get attention you don't want and lack recognition you deserve. This can be frustrating, and it can be tempting to try harder, but that likely won't work. Instead, try to be smart, leave room in your long-term plans for adjustments, and have healthy outlets for frustration. Ride it out, and leave important decisions for when you have a clearer view.

Ceres also starts 2023 in your money sector and turns retrograde in early February to late March, so there may be some financial challenges you need to work through as well. You may feel you don't have enough of what you need, even if you do, and perceive everything in a lack fashion. There may be unexpected expenses or things that cost more than you thought they would, and you can worry about your financial future. Try to have some saved before the retrograde hits, if you can. If things start to stress you out, press pause, reconnect with the moment, and ground yourself. Don't let frustration and impatience get the better of you and make things worse.

Ceres will come back to your money sector late June to mid-September, and is no longer retrograde, so this can help you to turn things around. This can be excellent financial energy, and you can maximize financial opportunities and find new resources or use existing resources in new ways. You can feel more comfortable and supported. This gets some help by Mars, who moves through your money sector late August to mid-October, and you have lots of energy and drive to make more money, focus on financial opportunities, and make the most of ventures that can provide a lot of profit.

Coming out of that, a solar eclipse occurs in your money sector on October 14th, and this can present a big financial opportunity, something that can set you up for a while, and your enthusiasm can be sky-high for your finances and for making the most of what's available to you.

Saturn is also exciting your work sector in early March, where it's been for a couple of years, and this has likely made work a more difficult thing for you. If you hated what you do, you likely hated it even more and had even more problems with it. There may have been difficulties with bosses, co-workers, employees, and clients, and you may have had way more responsibilities but didn't feel you were being fairly compensated for them. Hopefully by now, you've segwayed into work that you're passionate about, or at least feel comfortable with, and that can lead to all of the financial rewards June through October.

Pluto is also on the move to your work sector late March through mid-June, and this can push you even more to do something you're passionate about and emotionally invested in. You may transform your work life in some way, and take more control of your work destiny. You can assert your power, and fight to make sure it's not taken away from you by someone else who wants to control you.

Virgo 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Both Mars and Ceres move into your home and family sector in late November, and end 2023 in this sector. This brings lots of energy and drive for home and family matters, and you can plan a move, make improvements, make changes to your living situation or arrangements, see someone move in with you or move out, or plan for a family gathering.

You may want more time with family or those you think of as family, and can be extra supportive and want to help them with anything. You can be there for them, and provide comfort and nourishment if they need it. This can also make you feel nourished, and your support system may be strengthened. You may prefer to spend time in the places that are familiar and make you feel comfortable as well.

The year does end with Mercury retrograde for about a week in your home and family sector though, so there may be challenges that you need to work on at home or with family as 2023 closes. You may have little things pop up at home, like a pipe bursting or an appliance needing to be replaced, or little things come up with family and you have to step up and help out. You may find this a little bit annoying, but others can look to you to take the reins, and you can do it thanks to Ceres and Mars. Just make sure you're also taking care of your own emotional needs.

Virgo 2023 Mental State Horoscope

A lunar eclipse occurs on May 5th in one of the sectors ruling your mind, and you may need to sort through ideas and plans, and focus on the ones that you feel connected to emotionally. You may also be a strong communicator around the eclipse, as your heart and head merge. You can be more open with what you're thinking, and you can take what others say to heart as well, so you may need to protect yourself a little better and not assume there's a hidden meaning behind every word.

Ceres will tour that sector mid-September to late November, and Mars tours mid-October to late November. This can bring lots of new ideas, new plans, and excitement and enthusiasm for taking action with them. You can also make more time to nurture your mind and give yourself support for your ideas and opinions, which can help you feel more confident and comfortable. You may find that some of your ideas turn profitable as well, and you can maximize your mental skills and abilities.

Uranus remains in the other sector ruling your mind all year, and Jupiter is in this sector mid-May for the rest of 2023. This can bring lots of big ideas to you, so you're not just focusing on the little picture or the details. Instead, you're focusing more on the big picture, and allowing yourself to think bigger and brighter. You can be more optimistic as well, and this can help you focus on ideas and plans that you'd normally think weren't possible for you, but can become possible now. A lunar eclipse occurs in this sector October 28th, and this may help you narrow down what to focus on. You can be more invested in what you decide to pursue, and you can crave more space to let your mind wander and touch on even more possibilities.

Mercury retrogrades in this sector mid-April to mid-May, just before Jupiter moves in, so right beforehand, there may be difficulties with thinking bigger or being optimistic. You may shrink your outlook down, and only want to focus on the small stuff, or you may think too big and have a hard time controlling it. Once this retrograde ends and Jupiter moves, you may find better balance.

Mars is in the sector ruling your subconscious mind late May to mid-July, and you may focus on digging deeper into your subconscious mind, old issues, karma, and baggage. This is traditionally a time to let go, release, and understand. It can be very freeing, and is likely very important for you to do since Venus will retrograde in this sector right afterward, mid-July to early September.

Venus might bring out more issues that you've been avoiding, and there can be extra challenges with subconscious issues causing you to act in ways you shouldn't. You may feel like enemies come out of the woodwork as well, and you have to manage as best as you can without letting yourself become a victim or get taken advantage of. Work on issues before this retrograde hits, and then try to get more time alone to rest and reflect during the retrograde.

Virgo 2023 General Horoscope

Ceres retrogrades into your sign, Virgo, on March 22nd, and is retrograde in Virgo until May 6th. This can make you feel less supported, like you don't have enough, and you may be lazier in some ways and highly indulgent, while also being harder working in other ways and pushing yourself too far. There may be something upsetting that makes you feel out of sorts, and you need to make sure you're taking care of yourself. Don't let challenges be an excuse to ignore your own needs and let everything else dry up. Those of you born September 12th - 19th can feel this hardest around the end of the retrograde.

Ceres stays in Virgo until June 21st, and this can give you a chance to work on nurturing yourself, giving yourself the support you've lacked, and turning around anything that has been taken over by lack energy.

You can feel more abundant, and work on expanding on this. You may be able to handle things better, and feel less overwhelmed and more comfortable and secure.

Mars then tours your sign mid-July to late August, and this can give you a big surge in energy and drive. Mars in your sign happens roughly every two years, and is a great time for a new beginning. You can focus on starting a new project or venture that you're enthusiastic about and that inspires you, and this can be something you reach a height with in about 18 months. You can feel more confident, more willing to take initiative, and more excited about life.

But! Your ruler, Mercury does retrograde in your sign coming out of this, August 23rd to September 15th, and this can make you feel like you've got a lot on your plate. New beginnings and ventures may excite you, but they may also come with a lot of responsibilities, and this can weigh on you. Try to go easy on yourself, and don't give in to Virgo perfectionism. With this retrograde in your sign as well as with Ceres retrograde in your sign, you have some strong second chance energy if there's anything you'd like another shot at.

LIBRA 2023 HOROSCOPE

Libra 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Saturn begins 2023 in your love sector, and has been in this sector for a couple of years. Saturn moves out in early March, and this can open up more love and joy to you. With Saturn in your love sector, you've likely had to learn lessons around love, and get more serious about who and what you love. There may have been hard truths, and it may have been difficult to see some love relationships or hobbies leave your life. By now, you should be in a better place, and able to focus on having healthy, solid love relationships, what love means to you, and what love should be in your life.

With Saturn moving out, Pluto moves in, starting late March to mid-June, and this can bring more passion for love. You can be more intense with loved ones and throw yourself into everything you love to do. You may be more heart-centered, and want to lead with love. This can be good, but if there are any lessons you didn't learn with Saturn or any unhealthy relationships that somehow survived Saturn but didn't improve, Pluto can take aim. There may be more fighting over power and control with those you love, and you may gravitate toward powerful people.

Jupiter is in your relationships and commitment sector to start 2023 to mid-May, and this can make it easier for you to commit, and you may have more opportunities to commit to people and projects. You can see new people enter your life, enter into new partnerships and arrangements, and may work on meeting people in the middle, wanting to keep the peace as much as you can. A solar eclipse occurs in this sector on April 20th, and this can give major energy and drive for commitment, and there may be an important decision to make in a relationship.

Uranus remains in your intimacy sector all year, changing things up for you with your physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual bonds. Jupiter joins Uranus in this sector in mid-May for the rest of 2023, and you may have opportunities to expand on intimacy in your relationship. You can feel more comfortable strengthening your bonds with others, and want to feel as close as possible. You may also pursue mutually-beneficial arrangements, and can find that you have the most rewards when you're doing things that also benefit others.

Mercury retrogrades (appears to move backward) in your intimacy sector before Jupiter moves in, mid-April to mid-May, and this can bring out intimacy issues, power struggles, and fights for control. You may have something deep inside that you need to work on, and understanding or letting go can help so you go into Jupiter and Uranus in this sector with less baggage.

A lunar eclipse occurs in your intimacy sector on October 28th, and this can help strengthen the bonds of intimacy you have with others in healthy ways. Relationships where you don't feel very close, or where the bonds have been frayed, can get more attention, and you can make decisions to walk away from something unhealthy.

Libra 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Neptune remains in your work sector all of 2023, where it's been for several years, and this continues to make a spiritual connection to your work a priority. You likely need a work environment that doesn't have too many rules or too much structure, or where someone's looking over your shoulder constantly. You may prefer work that is spiritual in nature, or allows you to use your imagination, or where you're helping others.

Saturn moves into your work sector starting in early March, and this can make it more important for you to do work that you truly connect with, love, or are passionate about in some way. If you don't have that yet, you can hate what you do, and may want to walk away. Saturn doesn't like it when you're impulsive though, so try to avoid just jumping and instead make a conscious, thoughtful decision armed with information. Be smart and have a plan in place. If you already love what you do, Saturn can reward you, and you can get more opportunities, though these may come with more responsibilities.

Mars tours your career and life path sector late March to mid-May, so right after Saturn enters your work sector, and this can make you more ambitious, more driven to succeed, and you can reach new heights or hit your stride in some way. You may give more attention to your goals and long-term plans, and you can be disciplined with your energy. You can make good impressions on the right people, and you can achieve some status or get recognition.

On May 5th, a lunar eclipse occurs in your money sector, so some of this work can pay off, and you may see great rewards and results for smart choices and well-made plans. You can maximize your financial opportunities and current financial situation at the time. If it's the reverse and things aren't going well, you may experience a setback financially, an unexpected expense, or simply feel more pinched somehow. Try to be smart and disciplined.

Ceres moves through your money sector mid-September to late November, and Mars tours your money sector mid-October to late November, and this can be an awesome financial period. You can make the most of every opportunity, use your resources to your advantage, get access to new resources, and feel driven to make more money. You may also feel like spending and splurging more, so try to keep that in check so you don't go overboard. If you can control that, this can be a stellar period for finances.

Libra 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Pluto has been in your home and family sector for over a decade, and this is coming to a close. Pluto remains in this sector to start 2023 until late March, and returns in mid-June for the rest of the year, but moves in-and-out again in 2024 as it's moving away.

Pluto in this sector has likely brought major transformations for you at home and/or with family. What home means for you, what you need to feel at home, or even where your home is has likely changed considerably. What family means to you, who you consider family, and what your family looks like has also likely changed quite a bit. This has been to make home and family stronger for you, concepts that you're passionate about, and make you closer to your home and family and more invested in them.

The year does begin with Mercury retrograde in this sector though, to mid-January, and Mercury retrograde again in this sector in mid-December. The Mercury retrogrades can bring more attention to any home and family matters or issues that haven't been dealt with and need to be. If most of it has been dealt with by now, then these may just be periods of little things popping up, like a pipe bursting or a small disagreement with family. If anything big comes, ask yourself why you've avoided it thus far, and try to get to the root cause of the problem.

Libra 2023 Mental State Horoscope

The year begins with Mars retrograde in one of the sectors ruling your mind until mid-January, which began in late October 2022. This may bring challenges with seeing the big picture, and you may be overly defensive of your ideas. You may get stuck in thinking too big, and need to remember the details. Mars stays in this sector until late March, and you can work on finding the balance between the big and little pictures, and being less defensive and trying to more objective.

Mars and Ceres both enter the other sector ruling your mind in late November to end 2023, and this can stimulate your mind in big ways. You can come up with plenty of new ideas, get excited about your plans, take advantage of opportunities to take action with an idea or plan, and you can feel nurtured and supported with your ideas and plans. You can also be more vocal with support for others, and you can tend to your mental needs, showing your mind care.

Mercury retrogrades briefly in this sector for about the last week of December, so this may throw off focus, there may be a lot on your mind, and you may struggle with understanding. There can be a fight, and you may have trouble with your words. Your mind may need a break, so try to take one. Lines of communication may need to be improved or opened, so work on that.

Ceres retrogrades in the sector ruling your subconscious mind late March to early May, and this can bring out subconscious issues that have impacted your ability to feel nurtured and supported. You can gain understanding about how old issues have impacted you, made you feel insecure and lacking abundance, and how you've been your own worst enemy at times. Ceres stays in this sector to late June, and you can take the extra time to work on those old issues, let go, and release. You can give yourself support, and alter your automatic ways of doing things.

Mars tours the sector ruling your subconscious mind mid-July to late August, and this can give more energy and drive to focusing on subconscious issues, motivations, and desires. You can work to free yourself up, and may be more comfortable with moving on.

This can help as Mercury retrogrades in this sector as Mars leaves, late August to mid-September, and less baggage can keep from having too many problems then. If you end up having more problems, feel extra drained and overwhelmed and ready to break, you likely have something you need to work on and have been avoiding.

Libra 2023 General Horoscope

Ceres begins 2023 in your sign, Libra, and turns retrograde February 3rd in Libra, and stays retrograde in Libra until March 22nd. Ceres retrograde in your sign can mean you feel like you don't have the support you need, you're lacking resources, or you have financial issues, and you may feel insecure and full of self-doubt. There may be external conflicts you have to manage, and it can feel like a no-win situation.

You likely need to work on being more resourceful, even if you feel you don't have enough. Try to be creative with what you do have, and maybe try using some old resources again, old money-management methods you've tried before, or old ways of making more money. Be open to compromise with external problems, and try to see that as a win, even if it's not completely what you want. This can be a great time for a second chance.

Ceres comes back to your sign after the retrograde June 21st to September 15th, and you can work on giving yourself the support, nourishment, and comfort you may have missed earlier in the year. You can pursue opportunities for new resources and improved finances, and you can feel stronger and more willful.

That period does come with your ruler, Venus, retrograde in Leo, July 22nd to September 3rd, and this can throw you off in a subtle way with Venus being your ruler. In Leo, this can focus on your friends and dreams, so you may have trouble getting along with friends and acquaintances, and may question your dreams or get lazy about them. Try not to let stubbornness get in the way of solutions. Be open and flexible. It can be a good time to reconnect with old friends, old groups, old causes, and old dreams.

Mars tours your sign August 27th to October 12th, and this can give you a big boost of energy and drive coming out of the Venus retrograde, which you may need. You can focus on what you want to get started for yourself, what new ventures you want to take the initiative with, and the new beginnings you want to embark on that can be the focus for you for the next 18-24 months. You can get excited and feel ready to go.

This can get a big boost with a solar eclipse in your sign on October 14th, and you may be presented with a big new opportunity that you're enthusiastic about, or start a new beginning that is extremely exciting and inspiring. This can be an excellent time for something big and new, so make the most of it.

SCORPIO 2023 HOROSCOPE

Scorpio 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Mars is retrograde (appears to move backward) to start 2023 in your intimacy sector until mid-January, which began in late October 2022. This can bring out extra intimacy issues, you may need to work on strengthening emotional, physical, mental, and spiritual bonds with others. Deeply-held issues may come out, and you have to face them, along with any fears of intimacy. This can be good for reconnecting with old flames, and you have the chance to release old issues that free you.

Uranus remains in your relationships and commitment sector all year, where it's been for a few years, and you've likely been seeing big changes in your relationships and with the people in your life. You may be attracting all sorts of new people to you, and different from your norm. You may be open to different types of relationships, and your attitude about commitment may be changing.

Jupiter moves into this sector with Uranus starting in mid-May, and this can bring even more people into your life, and you can benefit from some of the connections you make. You can enter into new commitments and partnerships, and can be more supportive of those you care about. You can enjoy being with others, and see the best in your relationships.

Mercury does retrograde in this sector just before Jupiter moves in though, mid-April to mid-May, and any relationship issues that maybe didn't get addressed during the Mars retrograde may pop up during this Mercury retrograde, wanting you to deal with them. You may be short with others, and you can find it difficult to keep the peace, and you may feel out of sorts. It can be a good time to reconnect with people from the past, and to work through commitment issues and old relationship baggage.

A lunar eclipse occurs in your relationships and commitment sector on October 28th, and healthy relationships with people you love can grow stronger, while unhealthy relationships or ones you're not invested in may fall apart. Relationships come under the microscope, and you can see which are solid, which need extra work, and which you need to walk away from. This can also be a time of deepening commitment and taking it to the next level.

Neptune remains in your love sector all of 2023, where it's been for some time, and you can continue to focus on a spiritual connection in love. You may attract many people to you that you have a spiritual or karmic connection to, and you can be much more supportive, giving, and helpful with loved ones. You can make sacrifices for the people you love, and may be more romantic and charismatic.

Saturn joins Neptune in your love sector starting in early March, and Saturn is the planet of lessons, so if there are any love lessons you need to learn, Saturn may bring them. You may need to work through old love baggage and trauma, and work through issues so you can understand and not let it weigh heavily on your heart. Healthy love relationships can become much stronger, and you can be more committed and take love more seriously. Unhealthy relationships or ones where you're not invested can exit your life in the coming years thanks to Saturn, and sometimes this can be upsetting, but ultimately positive.

Scorpio 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Jupiter is in your work sector to start 2023 until mid-May, and this can bring lots of new work opportunities for you to pursue, and you can focus on the work that you feel good about. You can make improvements to your work environment, and you can connect with the people you work with and for better.

A solar eclipse occurs in your work sector on April 20th, and this can bring big opportunities for you, and you can jump at the chances that you get. Try to be smart about it, and this can end up being big for you work-wise.

Mars tours your career and life path sector late May to mid-July, and this can increase your ambition and drive to succeed. You can push for achievement, and strive to hit new heights. You may get recognition for what you've done, and can make important connections.

This is important to take advantage of since Venus will retrograde in this sector late July to early September, and you may be lazy with your goals, stubborn with your plans, and have trouble getting along with people you need to. It can be a time of setbacks, laziness, and bad impressions. You may need to give yourself plenty of time to work on your plans and goals, and leave some flexibility for breaks and the unexpected. You can also focus on an old goal, old career, or reconnect with an old mentor.

Mars and Ceres move into your money sector in late November for the rest of 2023, and it can bring great energy for you financially. You can feel you have plenty of resources and new ones keep coming to you, you have lots of energy and drive to make more money, and you can be smart with your financial decisions. This can be an abundant period, as long as you don't spend too much and keep that under control.

Mercury retrogrades in your money sector the last week of December though, and this may bring an unexpected expense, a detour in your financial plans, and you need to be quick on your feet and willing to adjust. It doesn't have to be a big thing if you can roll with it. Work on grounding yourself and exercising strict financial discipline during this time.

Scorpio 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Saturn starts 2023 in your home and family sector until early March, and has been in this sector for a couple of years. Saturn in your home and family sector has likely brought important lessons for you about what home and family means to you, what it looks like, what you want and need, and you've likely had to face old home and family issues, trauma, and baggage.

You're hopefully through that come 2023, and you have a solid sense of who you think of as family, where home is found for you, and feel less weight from old home and family baggage. Your internal foundation should be stronger and you should be more secure.

Pluto starts moving into your home and family sector in 2023, touring this sector late March to mid-June. Pluto brings passion and intensity, so you can become more passionate about having a home you connect with strongly, and more intense in your family relationships.

There may be more transformations to come with your home life and family, and you may begin to feel driven to do things like move to a whole new place, completely redo your home, or make major changes within your family or living situation. You may be drawn to fixing, whether it's the electrical in your home or the relationship issues of a relative.

You can take on a bigger role at home or with those you think of as family, and you may be seen as the strong one everyone can rely on. This can especially be true if you learned the lessons with Saturn, and you can be more comfortable taking on the extra responsibilities with Pluto.

Your emotions can be more intense as well, and you can crave stronger emotional connections to your home and family, which can be part of what drives any changes. If you can't make the transformations you want to, you may lash out and hate situations with a passion until they can change.

Scorpio 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Ceres begins 2023 in the sector ruling your subconscious mind, and retrogrades in this sector early February to late March. This can be a powerful time for clearing out baggage, your subconscious, and reconciling with the past. You may be looking backward quite a bit, and can be more introspective and reflective, so this may be a quiet time, and you may feel extra weighed down and exhausted, but this is because you need to let go of what isn't healthy for you anymore.

Ceres comes back to this sector late June to mid-September after the retrograde, and this can bring opportunities for you to set yourself up to be more supported, have more resources, and feel more secure. You can strengthen yourself subconsciously, connect to your intuition, and feel more aligned with your purpose and destiny.

Mars is also in this sector late August to mid-October, and brings energy and drive to focus on subconscious issues, motivations, and desires. You can take action to let go and release, and you can feel more energized when you have less holding you back. Energy overall may be lower, but you can quietly set yourself up on your own, staying out of the spotlight for the time being.

A solar eclipse occurs in this sector as Mars leaves on October 14th, and this can bring a great opportunity to set yourself up quietly, on your own, and have a solid, secure background to start building. You may feel ready to let go and move on from something important that has been holding you back, and this can be freeing. You can also work on something without others knowing that you're excited about and reveal later, or you can become aware of something that has been hidden to you. Your spiritual energy may also be higher, and your intuition may guide you to something exciting.

Pluto is nearing the end of its time in one of the sectors ruling your mind, staying until late March, and returning mid-June for the rest of 2023. It's been here for over a decade, and you've likely become more powerful in your communications, transformed how you approach your ideas and plans, and made you more intense with whatever you're interested in. You may have worked on old mental issues, and may have become more respected with your ideas and opinions.

Mercury retrogrades in this sector to start 2023 until mid-January, and again in mid-December. This may bring out issues you haven't worked on yet, transformations you have yet to embrace, or ideas and plans that need a do-over. You can reconnect with old ideas, and work on improving communication and expression.

Mars tours the other sector ruling your mind late March to mid-May, and you can think bigger and brighter, and may be more optimistic and open to what's possible. You can focus on pursuing opportunities that expand your mind and open you up to new experiences, and you can feel ready to deepen your knowledge and share your wisdom.

Scorpio 2023 General Horoscope

Ceres tours your sign, Scorpio, September 15th to November 25th, and Mars tours Scorpio October 12th to November 24th. With Ceres in your sign, you can be more nurturing and supportive of both yourself and others, and you can be more willing to compromise, yet also may seem stronger and more willful. You can work on nurturing yourself better, taking care of your own needs, and making good use of your resources or improving your finances. You can also work on being more nurturing or others, and helping in any way you can.

Mars in your sign can increase your energy and drive, and this is traditionally a time for new beginnings. You can take the initiative for what you want and feel excited about the new. With Ceres in your sign at the same time, this may be something that nurtures you, provides extra resources, pays off financially, or improves your security in some way. This may be something that you focus on for the next 2-4 years of your life.

A lunar eclipse occurs in your sign on May 5th, and this can stimulate your emotions, and this may be because you see results from work you've done and choices you've made. You may see progress and success with the things you did right and are passionate about, and you may see delays with the things you haven't and aren't invested in. This can provide information for you to make changes to your plans and approaches. You may be more sensitive though, so try to take care of your emotional needs.

SAGITTARIUS 2023 HOROSCOPE

Sagittarius 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Mars is retrograde (appearing to move backward) in your relationships and commitment sector to start 2023 until mid-January, which started in late October 2022. This may have brought out issues in your relationships or with commitment, old relationship trauma and baggage, and you've likely had to face some difficulties with others.

Improvements may have been needed in some relationships, while others may have come apart. You may have learned a lot about the people in your life, and this could've been a good time to reconnect with people from the past, and recommit to those you have a good connection with. Mars is in this sector to late March, so you can feel your relationships are strengthened and more committed coming out of the retrograde.

Jupiter is in your love sector to start the year until mid-May, and you can feel more affectionate and loving. More people you love may come into your life, and you can be more comfortable with love in general. You may be more heart-centered, and you can let your heart lead you. If single, you can be open to meeting lots of new potential suitors, and enjoy the attention you get. If in a relationship, you may try to make more time for romance and getaways. This can be great for self-love too.

A solar eclipse occurs in your love sector on April 20th, and this can stir up love in a big way. You may push for more romance, no matter your relationship status, and can be much more affectionate. This can also be great for a new creative project or venture that you greatly enjoy and throw yourself into.

Mars is in your intimacy sector late March to mid-May, and you can feel driven to improve intimate relationships in your life. You may be driven to expand on your physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual bonds with others, and want to make sure those bonds are unbreakable. You can be more passionate in love, and you may want someone you feel a strong physical connection to.

Sagittarius 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Uranus remains in your work sector all of 2023, where it's been for a few years, and you can continue to work on changes in your work life. You may be changing the job itself that you do, the way you approach your work, your work environment, or who you work with or for. What you want and need in your work might be changing too.

Jupiter moves into this sector in mid-May for the rest of 2023, and this can create lots of new opportunities for you to pursue work that you enjoy. You may be willing to take chances on yourself, and you can believe in your abilities and what you're capable of. There can be changes out of the blue that prove to be highly beneficial, and you can be presented with unexpected and sudden work opportunities. This may be scary, but ends up being a blessing.

Before this good stuff hits though, Mercury will retrograde in your work sector mid-April to mid-May, and you may have to face some challenges with your work. If you don't like what you do, you can hate it more; if you like what you do, you may be extra stressed about something, or have more responsibilities that can be overwhelming. Try to make sure you're planning time for breaks and taking care of yourself.

Pluto is reaching the end of its time in your money sector, staying in this sector to late March, and returning in mid-June for the rest of 2023. Pluto in your money sector has likely brought massive transformations financially for you, as well as with your values and security.

You may have seen some things leave your life that were incredibly upsetting, but you may hopefully learn what is worth something to you, what you truly value, and what to place trust in. By now, you can feel stronger and have a solid base for your life overall, and that can include financially, where you may have made big transformations.

Mercury retrogrades in your money sector to start 2023 til mid-January, and again in mid-December. This can bring out money issues that haven't been dealt with yet, and you can strive to make changes and improvements. There may be unexpected expenses, so try to save up beforehand, if possible. You may need to be more flexible and willing to go with it so you don't get stuck.

Ceres retrogrades in your career and life path sector late March to early May, and this might bring challenges with your goals and ambitions. You may feel you're not supported in what you're trying to achieve, or the resources you need for progress are lacking. You may feel you're not being justly rewarded for what you've achieved, and not getting the recognition you think you deserve.

You may be missing something important, and need to listen to your intuition, dive into your subconscious, and find out what it is. That can allow you to get back on track. Ceres stays in this sector to mid-June, and you can feel more supported and have better results after the retrograde if you do get to the root cause.

Mars tours your career and life path sector mid-July to late August, and this can make you feel more ambitious, more driven to succeed, and you can focus on taking initiative with your goals and long-term plans. You can feel more focused on what you want to achieve, and you may hit your stride, hit new heights, set new goals for yourself, take on a new mentor, or make important connections. Others can recognize what you're doing as well.

Mercury retrogrades in your career and life path sector when Mars is leaving though, late August to mid-September, and you may see a setback or delay of some sort, might not get as far as you'd thought, or don't get the recognition you thought you'd get. You may need to add some flexibility in your long-term plans, and remember to be disciplined without boxing yourself in and overwhelming yourself.

With the Mercury and Ceres retrogrades impacting your professional areas, 2023 is a big year for retrograde energy in your professional life. This may mean more setbacks and challenges, but it can also be excellent energy for second chances and do-overs professionally.

Sagittarius 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Neptune remains in your home and family sector all of 2023, so you can continue to connect spiritually with your home or with those you think of as family, and want to be there for them as much as possible. You can make sacrifices for your family, though you may need to work on better boundaries.

Your emotional intuition can be strong, and you can make your home a place of refuge. You may have a hard time pinning down exactly where you want your home to be, but can feel most comfortable by water, in nature, or in quiet.

Saturn moves to your home and family sector in early March, and this can bring out lessons that you need to learn regarding the home and family. Any old family issues, baggage, or trauma that hasn't been properly dealt with can be now, and while this can be upsetting, it's ultimately necessary.

You may feel some family connections end if they aren't healthy, and you may move away from places you thought were home if they didn't have a solid foundation for you in the next few years. Saturn wants you to be more practical and grounded, which Neptune has been evading, so solid connections to the home and family can take priority.

Sagittarius 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Saturn is in one of the sectors ruling your mind until early March, and it's been in this sector for a couple of years. This has likely made your outlook more serious and realistic, and you've become more disciplined mentally. You've likely had to learn how to make tangible use of the details and of your ideas, and how to sort through your ideas so you're not focusing on any that you won't really do anything with.

You've likely also been quieter in communications, and only spoken up when you were certain of what you were going to say. With Saturn moving on, you can open up more, and hopefully have better communications and expression going forward.

Pluto starts moving into this sector late March to mid-June, and you can become more passionate about your ideas and opinions and plans. Your focus can be more intense and unrelenting, so you can learn a lot more about whatever interests you. You can also be more comfortable speaking up about whatever you're passionate about, and you can dominate conversations.

Others may pay closer attention to what you say, and can take you seriously. This can also give you the opportunity to work on transforming your connection to your mind and mental abilities, so you're more comfortable with the mental power you have.

Mars tours the other sector ruling your mind mid-May to mid-July, and you can think bigger, come up with big ideas, and may be more optimistic. You can be open to ideas and opportunities that allow you to have new experiences, and you can learn more via life experience.

Venus retrogrades in this sector late July to early September though, so you may become lazy with these ideas and opportunities, or you may push for extra space that ends up pushing others too far away. Try to find space within existing structures, and make plans to pursue big ideas later.

Ceres tours the sector ruling your subconscious mind mid-September to late November, and Mars tours this sector mid-October to late November. Ceres helps you tackle subconscious issues around nurturing and support, and you can work to support yourself better, take care of your own needs, and be helpful with proper boundaries. Mars brings energy and drive for this, and you can be more comfortable with letting go and moving forward with better awareness and more understanding.

A lunar eclipse occurs in this sector on May 5th, and you can dig much deeper into your subconscious mind to gain more understanding of the past, old baggage and trauma, or even karma. This can be a big time for letting go, releasing, and removing some of the subconscious weight on you. This can be a serious, quiet, and draining lunar eclipse, but you can get a lot done.

Sagittarius 2023 General Horoscope

Mars enters your sign, Sagittarius, on November 24th, and Ceres enters on November 25th, and both stay in Sagittarius for the rest of 2023. Mars in your sign brings a lot of energy and drive for the new projects, ventures, and opportunities you want to pursue. You can take action, take the initiative, take the lead, and feel excited about the new beginnings you can embark on. Your enthusiasm may be high, and you can see all of the good things that are waiting for you.

Ceres in your sign can bring support and nourishment, and this may come from others, but it's more likely from yourself. You can give yourself the support that you need to pursue these new beginnings, and you can feel nourished as you move forward with new ventures. You can take care of your emotional and physical needs, and feel nurtured as you take action. The focus is more on you, and this can help you with anything you need.

Mercury does retrograde in your sign though, December 23rd 2023 to January 1st 2024, so the year ends with 1 week of Mercury retrograde in Sagittarius. You may struggle with having too much on your plate and being overwhelmed or anxious, or you may be indecisive and unsure of which options to choose. Try to go easy on yourself, and give yourself time for decisions and actions. It can be great for a second chance, if there's one you'd like to pursue at that time.

CAPRICORN 2023 HOROSCOPE

Capricorn 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Uranus remains in your love sector for all of 2023, where it's been for a few years, and you can continue to see changes or make changes in your love relationships. Who and what you love has likely changed quite a bit, and how you express love and what you feel is romantic likely has as well. You may be attracted to more unusual people, and may want unconventional relationships in some way.

Jupiter moves into your love sector in mid-May, and this brings lots of opportunities to connect to your heart, to be more loving and affectionate, to share the love you feel, and to be more romantic. If single, you may attract lots of potential love interests to you, and love may come suddenly, unexpectedly, and with someone different. If in a relationship, you can find new, fun ways of being romantic and connecting with your partner.

Mercury retrogrades (appears to move backward) in your love sector right before Jupiter moves in, mid-April to mid-May, and this can bring out love issues. If there's love baggage that needs to be addressed, you can become more aware of that with this retrograde. You may be short with your loved ones, and need to have more patience. Working through love issues would be a good thing with this retrograde so you can free yourself up for positive love energy when Jupiter moves in.

Mars tours your relationships and commitment sector late March to mid-May, so there can be extra focus on your relationships, the people in your life, and what you're committed to. You may be much more giving, and may feel the people in your life need more of your attention, and you can feel energized with a partner. Since this comes with the Mercury retrograde, you may have to work on controlling your temper with others and not getting into constant fights. Take a beat and talk things out calmly.

Mars moves into your intimacy sector mid-May to mid-July, and this can help you feel comfortable with strengthening your physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual bonds with others. You can feel driven to be as close as possible, and you can do the work to make that happen. With this coming as Jupiter moves to your love sector, this can be an excellent time for love and romance and chemistry.

But, Venus retrogrades in your intimacy sector as Mars leaves, mid-July to early September, and this may bring out intimacy issues, and you may struggle if you don't feel as close as you want to be, or if you don't feel your loved ones are putting in as much work as you are. You may need to detach a little, get a break, give them some space, and gain better objectivity.

Capricorn 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

2023 begins with Mars retrograde in your work sector to mid-January, which started late October 2022, and this can bring out challenges with your work. If you hate what you do, you can hate it even more, and you may run into problems with those you work with or for. You may have less focus for work, and you may feel disconnected from your job. This can stir a strong desire for change, but it may need to be held for a bit to let the energy settle. If you love what you do, you may still experience some issues, but smaller ones you can manage. You just may have a lot on your plate you need to deal with.

Mars stays in your work sector until late March, and you can focus on getting things back on track, pursuing new work opportunities, and feel connected to what you do in a positive way. You may have more energy to be productive, efficient, and organized, and can make changes to your schedule and routine.

Ceres starts 2023 in your career and life path sector, and turns retrograde in early February in this sector to late March. This might make you feel like you're not being properly rewarded for the work you've done and not being properly recognized for what you've achieved, and you can make bad impressions, or struggle with mentors and bosses. You may have extra responsibilities, and this can be overwhelming. It's great energy for giving an old goal a second chance, and there can be second chance energy professionally with Mars and Ceres retrograde.

Ceres comes back to your career and life path sector after the retrograde mid-June to mid-September, and this can give you the opportunity to get the rewards you've been looking for, to get the recognition you deserve, and to make important connections. You may hit your stride, hit a high point, or achieve something important, and can feel you're on the right path.

Mars tours your career and life path sector late August to mid-October, and you can feel much more ambitious, driven to succeed and achieve, and this adds to you hitting your stride or hitting new heights. You can take on new responsibilities, and others can look to you to be in charge. You can feel like you've made significant progress with something you began about 12-18 months ago.

Pluto also begins to move to your money sector late March to mid-June, and is going to fully enter this sector in the next 2 years, and this means Pluto is leaving your sign. While it may feel like a relief in some ways to get Pluto's relenting energy off of your back, Pluto in your money sector can be just as challenging.

You have to completely re-evaluate how you handle money, what you need for financial and life security, what you feel is worth something to you, and what you place value in. If any of this isn't rock-solid, Pluto can take everything away, and that can be a huge challenge to recover from. Don't place your values in anything superficial, or without thinking, or that isn't really true to you. Make sure you have a solid internal foundation.

Saturn starts 2023 in your money sector and exits in early March, and has been in this sector for a couple of years. Saturn is the planet of lessons, and hopefully, you've learned any you need to regarding money, security, and your values. If you have, you may see rewards with Saturn leaving and Pluto entering, and you can take more financial control, and see major financial rewards for investments and your legacy. If you haven't learned, start immediately!

Capricorn 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Jupiter is in your home and family sector to start 2023 until mid-May, and this can bring great energy for your home and family life. You may want to spend more time at home or in the places most familiar to you, and you can move to a bigger place, or make renovations and changes that allow you to have more freedom at home. You can feel like you have more opportunities when you're comfortable and have a safe space.

You may want more time with family or those you think of as family, and you can enjoy time with them. You may see your family expand as some get married or have children, or even you do. You may plan for more family gatherings, and may work on improving your connections with your family.

A solar eclipse occurs in your home and family sector on April 20th, and this eclipse might bring major energy for your home and family. You might need to make an important decision that impacts your home life, where you're living, or who you're living with, or that impacts your family in some way. You can quickly make the decision, and it may seem like you need to hurry to make it, but make sure you've done a little homework first before jumping.

Capricorn 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Neptune remains in one of the sectors ruling your mind all of 2023, and your imagination can continue to soar, you can continue to be focused on spiritual subjects, and your intuitive intelligence can strengthen. Traditional communication may be a bit of an issue but you can sense what is meant.

Saturn moves to this sector in early March, and you may keep more to yourself, not wanting to share what's on your mind until you're absolutely certain. You may worry about what others think about what you say, and you may take criticisms a little too much to heart. There may be communication and expression issues you need to work on, and you may need to work on being more confident in your mental abilities and ideas.

Ceres retrogrades in the other sector ruling your mind late March to early May, and this can make you question your big ideas and struggle with the big picture. You may feel less supported with your beliefs, and you can keep them to yourself. You likely need to give your mind a break and get some space, and take time. Ceres stays in this sector to mid-June, and you can work on supporting your own big ideas and big plans, and opening up to what's possible.

Mars then tours this sector mid-July to late August, and you can feel driven to pursue your big ideas and plans, and to take a chance on new opportunities and explore possibilities. You may be more optimistic during this time, and want to see the good in everything. You can talk a big game, but may need to make sure you're backing it up with action.

Mercury then retrogrades in this sector late August to mid-September, and you can struggle with getting enough mental space to focus on what you want, and may try to get some distance between yourself and others. Try not to push too much though, and don't let your focus on big ideas and plans make you ignore the details right in front of you.

Both Mars and Ceres enter the sector ruling your subconscious mind in late November for the rest of 2023, and you can dive into your subconscious mind, work on old issues, and release. This can be a great time for letting go of issues that have held you back with taking initiative, going for what you want, feel secure, and having resources you need. You can quietly set yourself up, and feel ready for action early in 2024.

Mercury retrogrades briefly in the sector ruling your subconscious mind the last week of December, so 2023 may come to a close with you needing extra rest and feeling mentally drained. You may need to take more breaks, and have to address a subconscious issue that is weighing you down. Letting that go can help you with energy as the new year starts.

Capricorn 2023 General Horoscope

As mentioned, Pluto is nearing the end of its time in your sign, Capricorn, where it's been for over a decade. This period has likely prompted you to make massive transformations in your life, of yourself, or of everything. You may have become more willful, stronger, and more comfortable with your personal power, and more in control. You've likely become more passionate, and have focused on what you're intensely passionate about.

Pluto starts to move out of your sign late March to mid-June, and with Pluto nearing the end, you may have come through the biggest transformations already. You can feel strong and disciplined. Those of you Capricorns born January 17th and later can get the biggest impact in 2023 though, so your transformations may peak in 2023.

Mercury retrogrades in your sign to start 2023 to mid-January, and then again in mid-December, so this may bring out lingering issues that need to be addressed. You can feel impatient and like you have a lot to deal with, and you've already dealt with a lot so you just want to escape, but you're almost through. Try to be patient with yourself and others, plan for breaks and to rest, and think about any second chances you want to pursue while you've got the chance.

AQUARIUS 2023 HOROSCOPE

Aquarius 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Mars begins 2023 retrograde (appearing to move backward) in your love sector, and this began in late October 2022 and lasts until mid-January 2023. This can bring out issues in your love relationships, and you may struggle with your loved ones getting on your nerves, constantly having misunderstandings, and old love issues can become a problem. You may need to work on having a better connection to your heart, being more patient and understanding in love, and working out old love issues. Mars stays in this sector to late March, and you can work on being more affectionate, loving, romantic, and generally positive in your relationships.

Ceres retrogrades in your intimacy sector late March to early May though, so you may have intimacy issues that need to be addressed as well. You may not feel as close to those you love as you'd like to be, and you may not feel as supported as you need to be. You may give quite a bit but feel like you're not getting much in return. You may need to work on getting to the root issue, the core problem that is making you feel this way, and dig deep within yourself to fix it.

Ceres stays in your intimacy sector to mid-June, and you can improve your physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual bonds with others, and feel supported and secure in your relationships. Mars tours your relationships and commitment sector mid-May to mid-July, and this can help you strengthen your commitments to others as well, and you can be more comfortable committing. You may feel you have more energy and drive when you're with a partner, and you can work on improving peace and harmony with others.

Coming out of that, Venus retrogrades in your relationships and commitment sector late July to early September, and this overlaps with Mars in your intimacy sector mid-July to late August. You may struggle with commitments, and may feel that there's a lot of uncertainty with others, or that others are being too dramatic and making you feel out of balance. You may need to get to the root of commitment issues and old relationship baggage so you can let it go. You can dig deeper and gaining more understanding can be of help.

Mercury then retrogrades in your intimacy sector late August to mid-September, and this can bring out intimacy issues, and adds on to the issues that Ceres retrograde stirs up, or brings out issues you didn't get to address during Ceres retrograde. You may need to work on having some space so you can dig deeper.

With all of this retrograde energy impacting your relationship areas, 2023 may be a year full of reconnections with people from the past, or old flames coming back around. Retrogrades also connect to Twin Flames, so this can be a year of Twin Flame activation and connection.

Aquarius 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Neptune remains in your money sector all of 2023, where it's been for a few years, and you can continue to use your money and resources to help others or in spiritual ways, and may place less emphasis on physical objects and more on spiritual connection to resources and possessions. Having a solid hold on your finances may be tricky thanks to Neptune's foggy energy, so grounding your finances can be important.

Saturn comes along, moving to your money sector in early March, and this can bring a strong dose of reality. If you've struggled a lot of having a good handle on your finances and resources, Saturn can bring that to you, but it may come with some hard lessons and hard reality initially. Any old money issues may need to be addressed, and any ways in which you haven't handled money well or have felt it become a negative in your life. You may feel like you don't have enough at times, but it's often perception and not reality since Saturn wants you to be more cautious and careful.

Mars tours your work sector late March to mid-May, and this can make you much more productive. You can maximize your time and be more efficient, and the more you get done, the more you want to do. This can help you get lots of work projects done and throw yourself into what you do more if you love it, and you can pursue opportunities for new work, if you're not super invested in what you do.

A lunar eclipse occurs in your career and life path sector on May 5th, and this can push you to search for a new career if you're not into what you're doing. You can experience major setbacks, delays, and be more emotionally sensitive if your heart isn't in it, and this can be a sign to search for something else. If you love what you do and you've done things right, you can achieve success, make progress, and get recognition, or hit your stride in some way.

Ceres tours your career and life path sector mid-September to late November, and Mars tours mid-October to late November. Ceres can help you take on more responsibilities, and you can handle them with care. Others can look to you to be the one to lead, and can instill a lot of trust in you. You can see more rewards for your progress and for being disciplined with your goals, and you can experience greater financial success.

Mars brings energy and drive, so you can feel super ambitious, and you can take the initiative with your goals and long-term plans. You can feel energized to work for what you want to achieve, and you can be enthusiastic and excited.

Aquarius 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Uranus remains in your home and family sector all year, where it's been for a couple of years, and you can continue to see or create changes with your home and family life. You may be moving quite a bit, what you want and need at home may be changing, and your family itself may be experiencing major changes. Some of these changes can be sudden and unexpected, which can impact you emotionally, so you have to be more emotionally flexible.

Jupiter moves to your home and family sector in mid-May, and this brings great energy for moving to a new place, making changes to your existing place or living situation so you feel you have more space, and you can greatly enjoy spending more time at home or with family. There may be big developments at home or with family in a positive way in 2023, and you can feel you have a solid foundation for your life and get excited about it.

Mercury does retrograde in your home and family sector before Jupiter moves in, mid-April to mid-May, and you can see issues at home that need to be addressed, or have problems with family you need to work out. Old home and family issues likely become a bigger problem, and you can work to solve them so you go into Jupiter-Uranus with greater energy and less baggage.

A lunar eclipse occurs in your home and family sector on October 28th, and you may feel more invested in your home and family life if the connection is healthy, and you can feel closer with them. If there are issues still present, then you may feel more distant, more irked, and need some space. Try to work on the issues internally before lashing out, and have a healthy outlet for emotions and frustrations.

Aquarius 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Jupiter is in one of the sectors ruling your mind to start 2023 until mid-May, and you can have lots of new ideas and plans, take advantage of opportunities to do something with them, and can be more optimistic in your outlook. You can enjoy conversing, and want to share your opinion more openly. Your mental abilities can be of benefit to you in some way, and you can see the good in yourself and others.

A solar eclipse occurs in this sector on April 20th, and you may jump at the opportunity to make one of your ideas reality. You can get excited by one of your plans, and willing and ready to take action. You may need to make sure you're not being too impulsive though, and do some homework first.

Ceres begins 2023 in the other sector ruling your mind, and retrogrades in this sector early February to late March. You may not feel as supported with your big ideas and plans, and may feel you have too much or too little space. You can struggle with seeing the big picture, and may be overly pessimistic about things. You may need to work on having more confidence in your own abilities and ideas.

Ceres returns to this sector after the retrograde in mid-June to mid-September, and you can grow more optimistic, get excited by your big ideas, and find support for your big plans. Mars tours this sector late August to mid-October, and you can have lots of energy and drive for pursuing your big ideas and taking action with your big plans. Your optimism can soar, and you can see the big picture with greater ease. A solar eclipse occurs in this sector on October 14th, and this can bring opportunities for your big ideas and big plans. You can get excited about them, feel enthusiastic, and are ready to go.

Pluto is in the sector ruling your subconscious mind, but this is nearing the end as Pluto exits in late March, and returns in mid-June. Pluto has been in this sector for over a decade, and you've likely quietly had to make changes of yourself. These changes may not have been obvious externally, but internally, you've completely overhauled yourself. You may have greater understanding of the past, have let go of extra baggage, and you can feel more powerful and in control, but quietly and without needing attention.

Mercury retrogrades in the sector ruling your subconscious mind to start 2023 until mid-January, and again in mid-December. Any subconscious issues you haven't dealt with yet can come out, and you can focus on what you need to let go of that's been weighing on you too much. This may be a draining time in all ways, so try to get some time to rest and relax and recharge.

Aquarius 2023 General Horoscope

Saturn is exiting your sign, Aquarius, on March 7th, and Saturn has been in your sign for a couple of years. Saturn in your sign is traditionally a time of learning a lot of lessons, learning a lot about yourself, being more responsible, mature, and disciplined, but this may have come with a lot more responsibilities and less progress. You may have felt more limited and restricted. With Saturn moving on, and have hopefully learned your lessons and done things right so you can go forth quickly.

Pluto starts to move into your sign March 23rd to June 11th, and Pluto is the planet of transformation. This can mean Pluto in your sign is a time to transform in any and all ways, and you can embark on massive transformations that take years and overhaul everything, or lots of smaller transformations that you accomplish quickly but can add up over time. Transforming helps you to release, understand, and grow stronger.

Pluto also rules power and control, so Pluto in your sign can help you find more personal power and take more control. If you've been hesitant to do so, Pluto can shove it right to you, and you can work on getting more comfortable. Others may see you as more forceful, and your personality can be much more dominant. You can also have an easier time coming back from defeat or failure, and seem to always find a way through and to thrive.

PISCES 2023 HOROSCOPE

Pisces 2023 Love & Relationships Horoscope

Ceres begins 2023 in your intimacy sector and turns retrograde (appears to move backward) in early February until mid-March, when it goes backward into your relationships and commitment sector and retrogrades until early May. Ceres impacting both your relationships and intimacy sector means this retrograde can make it difficult for you in your relationships.

You may not feel as supported, and you don't have as good of a connection as you'd like. You may struggle with giving too much and not getting enough in return, and you can feel a lot of lack energy in your dealings with others. You can become frustrated with others, and may need to work on grounding yourself and focusing more on how you can support yourself.

You may need to also be honest with yourself about how much you're getting versus giving in your relationships, and if others are just taking advantage of your naturally giving nature. Boundaries are always important for Pisces, but can be easily toppled if you're not being consciously on top of it, so assess and make adjustments if needed.

Ceres stays in your relationships and commitment sector after the retrograde ends to mid-June, and tours your intimacy sector mid-June to mid-September, so Ceres is bringing major focus to your relationships for a good chunk of 2023. You can work on support and nourishment in your relationships and dealings with others, and make sure the relationships aren't just supportive and nurturing for them, but for you as well.

Mars tours your love sector late March to mid-May, and you can be more loving, affectionate, and enjoy more time with loved ones. If single, you can enjoy dating around, while if in a relationship, you can enjoy bringing in more romance. This does come with Ceres retrograde though, so romance may help with some of the connection issues. This can indicate the return of an old flame as well.

Mars tours your relationships and commitment sector mid-July to late August, and you can feel more comfortable with commitment and connecting with others. You can work on striking a balance in your relationships and having it flow both ways, and you may find it's easier for you to compromise, negotiate, and mediate. This can put you in the middle in some situations though, so try to navigate that wisely.

Mercury then retrogrades in your relationships and commitment sector late August to mid-September, and you may struggle with someone in your life, or feel a lack of connection with others overall. You can focus on old relationship baggage and commitment issues, and you may work on releasing some of this.

Mars tours your intimacy sector late August to mid-October, so coming with Mercury retrograde at the start, and part of the issues you experience with others may stem from wanting to be closer with them but not feeling as close as you'd like. You may demand strong emotional, physical, mental, and spiritual bonds, which can be good if you're not too forceful about it and don't try to control everything. This can be easier after the retrograde ends.

A solar eclipse occurs in your intimacy sector October 14th, and this can bring great energy for intimacy and the bonds you have with others. Healthy existing ones can be strengthened, and you can enter into new close relationships as well. If single, you may prioritize strong physical intimacy, while if in a relationship, you can reignite the spark.

Pisces 2023 Career & Money Horoscope

Jupiter is in your money sector to start 2023 until mid-May, and this can bring lots of financial opportunities for you. You can make money in new ways, make more money than you have before, and you can come up with lots of ideas that can reward you financially. You can make smart financial decisions, and you can make your own luck (if you don't push it). The only downside is you may want to spend more too, so try to remember to save and/or invest.

A solar eclipse occurs in your money sector on April 20th, and this might bring a sudden financial opportunity that you have to pounce on, or you might see sudden results for financial plans and decisions. You may feel like you have to act quickly to any developments, but being a little more cautious and smart is helpful.

Mars tours your work sector mid-May to mid-July, and you can feel like getting more work done. You can get organized, make lists, tweak your routine or regimen, adjust your schedule, and increase your productivity. The more you do, the more you may want to do. Bigger projects may be a challenge but you can manage that by breaking them down into smaller ones.

Coming out of that, Venus retrogrades mid-July to early September, and this can make you lazier and lack focus, so you definitely want to take advantage of the energy with Mars beforehand. Venus retrograde likes to take away our energy, drive, and motivation, so we're a bit lazier and more indulgent. Try to give yourself lots of time to get things done, and don't be too hard on yourself.

Both Mars and Ceres move into your career and life path sector in late November for the rest of 2023, and this can increase your ambition and drive to succeed. You may feel like you hit a high point or reach your stride, and you can get recognition for your discipline and smart choices. You can put together new long-term plans for your goals, and you can feel this adds to your life as you continue on your path. You can feel nurtured and supported in your goals.

Mercury does retrograde the last week of December in your career and life path sector, so the year closes with this energy, and you may have a small setback or delay to work through. You can focus on trying to stay on track, and may just need a little extra time. A little break can be helpful so you're not overwhelmed by responsibilities, and you can resume refreshed.

Pisces 2023 Home & Family Horoscope

Mars begins 2023 retrograde in your home and family sector to mid-January, which began in late October 2022. Mars retrograde in this sector can bring out issues with your home and family life, and you may be extra frustrated, easily irritated, and prone to outbursts. Your emotions can be strong, and you can be easily pushed. You likely have an issue at your core that needs to be addressed to strengthen your internal foundation so you're not so sensitive.

You may find your family is quick-tempered as well, and little things can turn into blowouts. Everyone needs a little more patience, to hold thy tongue and think about what you're going to say first, and not be overly subjective about situations.

Mars stays in this sector after the retrograde ends until late March, and this can give you a chance to make improvements and get back on a good page with your family and those you think of as family. You can enjoy more time with them, and want to feel better connected. You can make improvements at home, and this can help you feel more secure.

Pisces 2023 Mental State Horoscope

Uranus remains in one of the sectors ruling your mind for all of 2023, where it's been for a few years, and you can continue to think outside of the box, have flashes of brilliant insights, and push yourself mentally outside of your comfort zone. You can enjoy talking things over with friends and acquaintances, and you can take a different approach to plans.

Jupiter moves into this sector with Uranus in mid-May, and this can open up your mind even more. You can think bigger and have a more optimistic attitude, and your outlook on life can be more open. You can be more gregarious, enjoy chats, and can have a way with words. You may benefit from using your mental abilities and skills, and from learning new skills.

Mercury does retrograde in this sector just before Jupiter enters, mid-April to mid-May, and this can steal your focus away. You may struggle with using your mind, taking action with ideas, conversing, or feeling understood. Any little issues with communication or expression can come out, and dealing with them can help open up new doors when Jupiter moves in after the retrograde.

A lunar eclipse occurs in this sector on October 28th, and you can see the results of work you've done for an idea or plan. You can sort through your ideas more easily, and you can focus on the ones you're most passionate about. It can be easier for you to express yourself, and you can be more authentic, merging your heart and mind.

A lunar eclipse occurs in the other sector ruling your mind on May 5th, and this can make you think bigger, and you can make progress with big plans and big ideas you've already been working on. You may be more invested in the new big ideas and plans you have, and can believe in them passionately.

Ceres enters this sector mid-September and Mars enters mid-October, and both stay to late November, so this can help with opening up your mind, and you can be more optimistic and want to take advantage of possibilities and opportunities as much as you can. You can learn through life experiences, and can share what you've learned with others. Experiencing life can help you feel nurtured and enthusiastic.

Saturn is in the sector ruling your subconscious mind to early March, where it's been for a couple of years. Saturn in this sector has likely made you learn a lot about the past, dig into your subconscious mind to understand your issues and work on releasing, and you've likely had lots of revelations. All of this helps you to understand, to grow, and to be ready to move forward.

Pluto starts to move into the sector ruling your subconscious mind late March to mid-June, and this can help you find more of your inner power. You can quietly transform, and take control of yourself. You may grow stronger on your own, and don't need as much attention for it. You can become a powerful spiritual, a strong intuitive, and your imagination can surge.

Pisces 2023 General Horoscope

Neptune, your ruler, remains in your sign all year, Pisces, where it's been for some time. Your ruler in your sign has helped you to feel more comfortable and at ease with your natural Pisces energy, and you've likely been able to channel more of your inner mystic, your intuitive abilities, and your inner creative. You've also likely been much more compassionate, understanding, empathetic, and working to help others as much as you can, and your charisma has likely been high.

But, you've also likely been even foggier than is usual for Pisces, and have had to work harder to maintain boundaries, which have likely been shaky. You've probably had to work harder at maintaining your own identity separate from others. For 2023, those of you Pisces born March 12th - 18th can get the major influence of Neptune.

Saturn also moves to your sign starting March 7th, and Saturn in your sign is traditionally a time for lessons in all areas of life, but especially with yourself, with who you are and who you want to be, and your outward identity. You may have a lot more responsibilities with Saturn in your sign, and you have to work harder at being realistic. Some balance between reality and fantasy is likely needed with both Saturn and Neptune in your sign.
